Claim Paraguay Invasion Repelled

Say Rebels Fled Back To Argentina

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP) — Interior Minister Edgar Insfran told a news conference Saturday night an invasion of Paraguay by armed rebels had been "completely smashed."

Insfran, former Asuncion police chief, said an invading band of about 150 men had been scattered and disorganized with the help of the air force, and presumably had fled back to Argentine territory.

He said Puerto Carlos Antonio Lopez and Colonia Otano, two small towns along the Parana River, were not captured by the invaders as previously reported.

Insfran said three invaders were wounded and government forces had no casualties.

The Paraguayan government previously had announced that a rebel force of between 500 and 1,000 men crossed the Parana River from Argentina's Misiones province Friday and attacked the two towns.

A government communique had announced the fall of Colonia Otano, but had not mentioned any rebel takeover of Puerto Carlos Antonio Lopez.

Earlier government statements claimed the rebels were armed with Argentine weapons, and said civilian militia as well as troops and police resisted them.

Colonia Otano was said to have been defended by only five policemen.

Informed border sources in Argentina said Saturday that well-armed rebels seeking to overthrow Paraguayan President-Gen. Alfredo Stroessner, South America's last remaining dictator, apparently were mapping a guerrilla-type campaign patterned after that of Fidel Castro of Cuba.

Paraguayan exiles, of whom there are several thousand in Argentina, said several columns had crossed the Parana River from both Brazil and Argentina.

Official sources in Brazil said they had no knowledge of an invasion from Brazilian territory.

Women Voters Concentrate On Economic Policies

ST. LOUIS (AP)—For the next year and perhaps longer the League of Women Voters—more than 127,000 strong—will focus its attention on foreign economic policies.

The subject will be discussed at meetings of the 1,000 local leagues throughout the nation. The organization will take no stand on the matter for at least 12 months.

The league is non-partisan and does not support or oppose either candidates or political parties.

Wording of the single subject for concentrated study and action, worked out at the league's five-day 24th national convention in St. Louis this week, emerged this way:

"Support of United States economic policies which promote world development and maintain a sound United States economy."

The record number of 1,094 voting delegates thus followed, with minor changes in wording, the recommendation of the league's national board for their 1960-62 agenda.

Truman Blasts His Old Enemy, Nixon, At Democrat Rally

WASHINGTON (AP) — A steamed-up Harry S. Truman told thousands of rallying Democrats Saturday night in only slightly camouflaged language that some Republicans prefer political retirement to running with Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The former president also took a swipe at the present one by inviting fellow Democrats to "look at what passes for leadership at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue these days."

Truman urged the party loyal to sweep the November election and throw out what he called the party of privilege.

"These last years of drift and neglect and indecision must be reversed," he said.

The way to do it, he said, is to keep reciting to the people a GOP record he said is mostly messy and bad. He said that the more he thinks about this record, "the more I get steamed up."

The fiery former chief executive slashed at his old enemy, Nixon, in predicting the Democrats will roll up November victories giving them even bigger majorities in both Senate and House.

"Let me ask you a question," Truman said. "Why do you suppose so many Republican members of the House are 'voluntarily' retiring this year? How would you feel if you had to run for Congress as a Republican on a ticket headed by this vice president?

"All I can say is, there are some things much worse than retirement."

In a speech for a dinner to raise money for Democratic congressional candidates, Truman whaled away with unflagging vigor and impartiality at the GOP, President Eisenhower, Nixon and the records of all three.

In text and tongue-lashings, it was a throwback to the give-em-hell Truman who rang up a stunning victory in the 1948 presidential election.

But in the scramble for this year's Democratic presidential nomination, Truman held to his announced position of neutrality. He said this wasn't the time or place to say which man he considers best.

Mother Of Four Indicted For Embezzlement

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A deputy Circuit Court clerk, the mother of four children was named today in a five-count indictment charging her with embezzlement.

Mrs. Barbara Lents, 38, was accused by the Lawrence County Circuit Court grand jury with taking $4,234 from the circuit clerk's office during an eight-month period. She is free on $3,000 bond.

Circuit Clerk Byrad Bridgett said Mrs. Lents signed a statement March 4 after the losses were discovered. He said she admitted taking funds from the office starting in July 1959. Bridgett said she agreed to make restitution.

Mrs. Lents is the wife of Warren Lents, an Army enlisted man assigned to the Lawrenceville National Guard armory. Her bond was posted by her father-in-law, L. G. Lents of Flora, who put up his personal property in lieu of cash.

Chessman Meets Press As Lawyers Seek Clemency

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Caryl Chessman's attorney petitioned anew for his life Saturday before a court not scheduled to meet until two hours before the convict-author is due to die in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber Monday. The convict himself prepared the petition.

Chessman, meanwhile, held a "farewell" press conference in prison, and said he could prove he was innocent of the sex perversion crimes which brought him two death sentences 12 years ago.

A new petition for a writ of habeas corpus and a stay of execution was filed before the State Supreme Court at 3 p. m. Saturday by attorney George T. Davis. Even before Davis showed up, the court clerk said in anticipation of the action that the court would not be in session until 8 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time Monday. The execution hour is 10 a.m.

Chessman asked that his execution be delayed until the attorney general can complete an investigation of Charles S. Terrenova, described in the petition as the man who always has been the prime suspect in the red light bandit crimes.

The petition also said William Woodfield, Argosy magazine writer, had given the attorney general the names of three men who could verify that Chessman was not the Los Angeles red light bandit.

These men were named as Paul R. Judd, David H. Knoles and William Wampler.

The names were supplied the attorney general for checking in the investigation of Terrenova. Terrenova has been a California parole fugitive since 1955. He was at large in Los Angeles during the period of the red light bandit operations in 1948 and was jailed there in April 1948.

The "red light bandit" term springs from the fact the abused women were found in cars in darkened lanes by a man who flashed a red light in their faces, presumably to give the impression he was a policeman.

Kemal Ataturk

Korean-Type Riots Hit Turkey—

THOUSANDS OF STUDENTS, principally in Istanbul and Ankara, are rioting against the government of Premier Adnan Menderes. They are protesting recently passed laws which grant unprecedented powers to the government. Police used tear gas and fired into the air as 5,000 students marched from Istanbul University carrying banners and pictures of Kemal Ataturk who founded the Turkish republic in 1923. Military law has been imposed in Istanbul and Ankara. Reports — denied by the government — claim that over a dozen students have been killed. Menderes cancelled a trip to remain in Ankara.

Nixon Plays Waiting Game

Differs With Ike's Policies On Some Major Issues

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon has indicated that he differs with the administration's policies on some major national issues, but he says he will not spell out the differences until he has been named the Republican candidate for president.

"Only when I become the nominee," Nixon said in an interview, "Can I appropriately express independent views that I may have."

John S. Knight, president and editor of the Knight Newspapers, interviewed Nixon last week. He disclosed the vice president's position on several political questions Saturday in his weekly column, "The Editor's Notebook."

Knight questioned Nixon about reports that he and President Eisenhower are not in complete agreement on questions of defense, health insurance, and farm policies.

Nixon replied, Knight said, that while Congress is in session, "I would very properly be criticized for expressing any views which would be at variance with the President's programs and thereby jeopardize their passage."

Nixon added that this "is exactly the understanding I have with the President, and to which he referred in his recent press conference when he said I would be 'stupid' to simply stand pat on what this administration has done."

Knight said Nixon is resisting pressure to start campaigning at once.

Nixon's view is that the critical point in the battle for the presidency will come in the closing weeks of the campaign, Knight

Soviet Ship That Watched Missile-Firing Sub Sails Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet trawler was heading out into the Atlantic Saturday after a prowling cruise off the American coast which took it within sight of a U.S. missile submarine trying out equipment.

The Navy said latest reports show the ship was sailing eastward Saturday morning after a trip which took it down to a position off Norfolk, Va.

A Navy blimp photographed the trawler Vega Tuesday while it was less than a mile from a location off Long Island where the Polaris submarine George Washington, accompanied by two surface ships, was testing out the release of dummy missiles from its launching tubes.

There was no violation of the international law in the coastwise cruise of the trawler. It was well outside the territorial waters of the United States, in international seas.

Although the hull of the 250-foot ship appeared to be of normal trawler design, like those of other commercial fishing craft, the photograph showed an unusual array of radar equipment.

Since it was designed as a fishing craft, the Vega probably carries sonar. Using one type of sonar, such a ship can spot schools of fish. It also can listen to submarines, like the George Washington.

State Lawmakers Map Plans For Fight On Reform

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Still uncommitted on what kind of a Chicago police reform bill he favors, William G. Stratton and his Republican generals meet Monday night to draw battle plans for the special Legislature's session Tuesday.

Chicago Democrats declared they will not retreat from their single, simple proposal to wipe out the one-year residence requirement for appointive Chicago officials.

Chicago's Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley, has insisted new legislation should not infringe on local control of appointments.

Rumor Daley Ask Rocky Head Demo Ticket This Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago hedged at first Saturday night and then denied that he or any emissaries had made overtures to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, a Republican, to become the Democratic presidential candidate.

Reports to that effect had been getting around in New York, with Daley supposed to have offered Rockefeller the Illinois and some other delegations at the Democratic National Convention. Daley is a power in the Democratic party in Illinois.

The mayor first told a reporter who asked about the reports:

"I don't know anything about it. But he's a good governor."

When it was suggested to the mayor that he wasn't exactly throwing down the reports, Daley said that "I don't think I can."

The mayor asked whether Rockefeller is a candidate. He was told that the governor has begun to sound as if he might have second thoughts after having turned down a bid for the GOP nomination.

"How about the Democratic nomination?" the newsman countered.

"We've got a lot of fine candidates," Daley grinned.

At that point he was asked point blank whether he or any emissary had made overtures to Rockefeller to go on the Democratic ticket.

"No, no," Daley answered.

Princess Margaret Will Ride In Glass Coach To Westminster Abbey For Wedding

LONDON (AP) — A blaze of pageantry on Friday will climax the storybook romance of Britain's lovely Princess Margaret.

On that day amid the magnificent pomp this monarchial democracy stages in utmost splendor, she will wed her commoner sweetheart, Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Under the majestic trappings, it's the simple story of boy-meets-girl and the wishes of countless thousands for their happiness.

There's nothing simple about the setting, though.

The pretty princess will ride in a glass coach beneath an archway of 30,000 roses. Massed trumpets will sound. Drums will roll and royalty, the famous and the unknown will watch.

The settings are historic Westminster Abbey, Buckingham Palace, the streets of storied London, and the honeymoon yacht sailing down the Thames to the West Indies.

The magic moment for the royal wedding comes at three minutes past 11 o'clock Friday morning. (British summer time is six hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time.)

At that minute the carriage procession carrying the bride's oldest sister, Queen Elizabeth II, Queen Ingrid of Denmark and members of the British royal family will leave Buckingham Palace.

A mile away at the same time, the glass carriage — the smoothest riding of all the royal rigs—will carry Margaret and her brother-in-law, Prince Philip, from Clarence House.

At 11:25 the princess and Philip will roll up before the abbey's great west door.

Meanwhile, the bridegroom and his best man, Dr. Roger Gillatt, will drive to the deanery beside the abbey and slip into the abbey through a side door near the Poet's Corner.

Inside the great edifice, the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, will take over.

A simple but rarely seen religious ritual will bind the couple together—the blessing of the hands and the wedding rings. This ceremony is not used in most Church of England marriages, but Princess Margaret and Armstrong-Jones asked for it. Friends say the high church rite was selected by Margaret because she desires to stress the importance of the marriage vows — including her promise to obey.

By 12:40 p.m., the bride, groom and the wedding party should be back at Buckingham Palace for what is technically called the wedding breakfast.

Then early Friday afternoon Margaret and her husband will ride from the palace to the muddy Thames. A royal barge will take them to the royal yacht Britannia and with 20 naval officers and 237 sailors, the honeymooners will sail at 5:15 to the English Channel, across the Atlantic to the warm breezes of the West Indies.

Cheryl Crane, 2 Teen-Agers Flee Home For Girls

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lana Turner's troubled, 16-year-old daughter, Cheryl Crane, and two other teen-agers were runaways Saturday from a county-operated home.

They fled about 7 o'clock Friday night after scaling an 11-foot, barbed wire-topped wall.

Authorities said they had no inkling of where the three had gone after escaping from the minimum-security El Retiro Home for Girls, near U.S. Highway 101 in suburban Sylmar.

Cheryl, who two years ago fatally stabbed Miss Turner's hoodlum lover, Johnny Stompanato, in the actress' bedroom, was committed to the home six weeks ago for what her mother called psychiatric therapy.

At the time, Miss Turner denied she feared the girl was planning to elope with a 22-year-old drive-in restaurant employe Cheryl had been dating.

Police, in answer to questions, denied they are looking for the boy friend, Robert Martin Gunn, for questioning about Cheryl's disappearance.

Cheryl, 5 feet 8 and 115 pounds, was wearing gray Capri pants, a long black sweater and sandals when she and her companions vanished into the residential neighborhood near the home. The wall, a chain-link fence sprayed with concrete, has several strands of barbed wire at its top.

With Cheryl were Donna Wilson, 16, North Hollywood, and Cheryl Zumbrum, 15, Van Nuys.

Police were treating the escape as a routine runaway juvenile case and said they were conducting no special search.

Restaurateur Steve Crane, Cheryl's father and the second of Miss Turner's four husbands, told newsmen: "I'm worried, of course. First, I want to grab her and shake her — and then I know I'd hold her and say, 'Dear God, thank God you're safe.'"

Miss Turner, who like Crane telephoned the home for news of Cheryl, said: "She was doing so well. The reports from the school have been very good."

Dorothy Kirby, director of the home, said Cheryl had seemed well-adjusted in her new life and: "The girls liked her. She liked them and was doing well in her studies.

NATO Ministers Gather In Turkey

As Shouting Students Defy Martial Law

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Western foreign ministers flew into Istanbul Saturday night for a NATO conference and ran head on into a Turkish crisis sparked by student protests against Premier Adnan Menderes' government.

About 100 students attempted to stage a demonstration at the Istanbul Hilton Hotel just as Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd arrived there. Infantry troops standing guard around the hotel moved in quickly and dispersed the youths.

Mass arrests have been carried out by troops and police and about 3,000 students and youths were carted off at bayonet point to detention camps Saturday as Turkey's government sought to cope with the student unrest.

In another strong move, the government ordered a 24-hour curfew beginning at 4 a.m. Sunday and ending at 4 a.m. Monday. Night curfew restrictions already had been imposed.

Exempted from the 24-hour order were the diplomats in Istanbul for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting.

The official casualty total in outbreaks in Istanbul and Ankara since Thursday has been given by the Ministry of Interior as one dead and about 15 injured. Unofficial counts have put the dead at six and the injured at more than 100.

Demonstrations against the authority of Menderes jangled this tense, dusty city again during the day. Bands of students roamed the city, waving national flags and chanting slogans of "freedom" and "Menderes resign."

Pointedly, no Western leader has had a word to say about the repeated disturbances by students, which flared Thursday into fighting and shooting. NATO officials were saying privately the troubles will be regarded by the alliance as an internal affair for Turkey. But Turkey's allies clearly were embarrassed.

Herter and Lloyd were among the early arrivals for the first conference of the 15-nation NATO Alliance ever held under martial

The Rains Came, Winter Moved Into Illinois

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wintry temperatures moved into Illinois Saturday night, following rains that washed the entire state.

Frost or freezing temperatures were predicted for the entire state, with the Weather Bureau forecasting possible snow flurries in the north.

Rainfall amounts for the 24 hours ending at 7 p.m. Saturday ranged up to almost one inch in northern Chicago and 1.47 inches in Rockford.

Chicago received .39 inch of rain between 6 a.m. and 1 p.m., including a late morning downpour that drenched 10,000 marchers on Chicago's 8th annual cleanup parade down State Street.

Other heavy 24-hour rainfall amounts included 1.06 inches in northwest corner near Dubuque, Iowa, .76 inch at Peoria and Moline, .53 at Quincy and .43 at Springfield.

Maximum temperatures in Illinois Saturday ranged from 46 in the northwest corner and 50 at Rockford to 68 at Vandalia and 70 in the Cairo area.

Fear May Day Rally In Cuba May Spark Anti-U.S. Disorders

HAVANA (AP) — Thousands of Cubans streamed into Havana Saturday night for Sunday's giant May Day rally that is expected to produce another barrage of U.S. denunciations by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Many American residents, fearful Castro's oratory might spark anti-U.S. disorders, crowded into air flights for Miami. Those remaining here stuck close to their homes.

A predicted crowd of 1½ million for the rally—called to show support for Castro's regime — was scaled down to one million by progovernment newspapers. No explanation was given.

The capital was alive with speculation over what Saturday would bring.

It ranged from predictions that Castro would declare Cuba a Socialist state, or break off diplomatic relations with the United States, to reports he once again would voice familiar charges of an American plot against his government.

He will speak after a parade of about 150,000 armed militiamen, mostly peasants, workers and students.

Arrangements for the rally represent a maximum effort by officials to drum up national support for his regime in the face of what is believed to be growing discontent.

Bus and train services were used exclusively for bringing in the crowds from the provinces. Some Cubans came on foot. All theaters, restaurants, beaches, clubs, and liquor stores will be closed.

To further encourage a good turnout and because May Day falls on a Sunday, the government declared Monday a national holiday.

Missing from the celebration will be the usual display of banners demanding higher wages for labor.

The powerful Cuban Confederation of Workers, the main organizing force behind the rally, has banned such ideas as counter-revolutionary.

Also missing will be David Salvador, once Castro's right-hand man in labor circles. A political moderate, he has been virtually ousted from the confederation's top post of secretary general by extreme leftist Jesus Soto.

Reports from Camaguey, where Salvador returned to his old job in a sugar mill, said he was suffering from a liver ailment and would be unable to participate in the rally.

PRINCESS MAY SPEND PART OF HONEYMOON IN JAMAICA

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Refurbishings at Prospect, Sir Harold Mitchell's century-old great house on the white sanded north coast, seem to confirm reports that Princess Margaret will spend part of her Caribbean honeymoon there. Members of the royal family and Sir Winston Churchill have holidayed at Prospect.

Discontinue Sea Hunt For Missing Pilot, Gluckmann

HONOLULU (AP) — The Coast Guard exhausted its only clues Saturday and gave up efforts to find Peter Gluckmann in the Hawaiian area.

The Coast Guard ended its active search for the flying San Francisco watchmaker after combing Hawaiian beaches and waters for two days by plane and ship.

There were two clues to Gluckmann, missing in his light plane on a record nonstop try at flying 8,885 miles from Tokyo to New York.

Mrs. J. E. Sifferlieu, a Bandera, Tex., housewife tuned in the short-wave band of her radio Thursday and thought she heard a pilot calling, saying he was down on a beach 150 miles from Honolulu.

Coast Guard planes, small private planes, Marine helicopters, a patrol boat and land parties joined the search starting Friday morning. Nothing was found of Gluckmann, his Beechcraft Bonanza or the flare.

Would-be rescuers were confronted with a vast stretch of the Pacific in which the veteran solo flier might have gone down. Officials had no idea where he might be. The Coast Guard said officially the 34-year-old bachelor was "believed down at sea."

Gluckmann had expressed the hope he would be lucky in his attempt to set a new record.

But he also was worried. A friend and fellow flier, Robert O King, formerly of Larchmont, N.Y., said Gluckmann told him he would run out of fuel on the flight to the U.S. mainland unless he got lucky winds.

"He thought he would run out of fuel about 250 miles short of the West (California) Coast if he didn't get some real lucky winds," King said.

"I saw Gluckmann when he passed through Honolulu en route to Hong Kong. We kidded about his taking out life insurance, but he had no premonition of a crash.

"I think there may still be a chance for a day or two that he is alive."

Gluckmann's last report was made Wednesday, seven hours after he took off from Tokyo in his heavily loaded single-engine plane.

Gluckmann's fuel should have run out early Friday. He had estimated his flight time to New York at 58 hours.

With The Girl Scouts

Calling all workers! Your help is urgently needed this Sunday afternoon beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Girl Scout cabin on Lake Jacksonville—Camp Shagbark—for the annual clean-up of the grounds. Come out with the whole family and enjoy a picnic in the beautiful scenic area afterwards. Coffee will be furnished at the cabin, bring food for your family. Rakes and other equipment will be out there, just bring plenty of willing helpers! Children can pick up the small brush; husbands will be more than welcome since winter storms have left many tree branches on the ground. Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, president of the Board of Directors, will be in charge of the day's activities and will be looking for you out there today!

Outdoor training for all leaders of Girl Scout troops was held two days last week under the direction of Mrs. Hartman, the Executive Director, and Mrs. Darrell Roegge. The first day's session was held all day Tuesday at First Presbyterian church with 18 leaders participating. Basic techniques in knot tying, lashing, fire building and outdoor menu planning were demonstrated as well as hiking, laying of a trail, etc. The second day's training was held at Camp Shagbark, when the leaders put into practice the techniques learned the day before. The group was divided into patrols and each patrol planned, shopped for and cooked a different menu. Twenty-two attended this session. This training is not to be confused with camp training, which is specifically for all who will be unit leaders at camp this summer. Camp training will be given in May. Outdoor training is for all leaders whose troops participate in any kind of outdoor activity and to help them prepare their girls for camp.

Other meetings held last week included the Training committee which met Monday at 9:30 a.m. at the Scout office, the Camp committee which met Wednesday morning at the office and a meeting of mothers of girls in Troop No. 23 of South Jacksonville school.

Training Sessions

Two very important training sessions will be held this week at the office: on Tuesday, May 3, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. will be Brownie Fly-up training for all leaders of 5th grade Brownies who will become Girl Scouts and on Thursday, May 5th, at the same time as on Tuesday, there will be a sixth grade Workshop for all leaders of Intermediate Girl Scouts who will be entering Junior High school next year. These are very important years in a Girl Scout troop and leaders of these age groups are urged to attend even if they do not plan to go on with the troop.

Camp committee members will meet Wednesday morning at 9:45 o'clock at the Scout office and the Finance committee will meet there at 10:15 a.m. on Friday.

Franklin School

Girl Scout troops at Franklin school are to be introduced to you today. There are 79 girls in that school registered as Girl Scouts which is something of a record as compared with the school enrollment. The whole school is now completely organized with a troop for every grade, second through 6th.

The newest troop to be organized is the Intermediate troop No. 12 which was registered this month with 31 girls from the 5th and 6th grades. Actually it is the 5th grade troop which was reactivated this year after two leaders moved away and the 6th grade girls, who have never had a troop, were invited to join them for the time they had remaining before Junior high school. Enterprising leaders for this group are Mrs. Amos Barks, 1000 Hardin avenue; Mrs. Robert Hockensmith, 429 East Superior and Mrs. Norton Portee, 428 Ebey. Members of the troop committee are Mrs. Ernest Chumley, 340 East Michigan; Mrs. High Bradshaw, 604 Hardin and Mrs. Russell Pullam.

This troop has been very active during its existence. During the cookie sale they sold 590 boxes with prizes awarded to Becky Michael for selling 80 boxes and to Carol Mills for selling 60 boxes. They held their investiture on April 6th and up to that time they were busy working on the tenderfoot rank. Now they are learning knot tying and other outdoor skills in preparation for camp to which the girls are looking forward eagerly.

All the troops together at Franklin school sold 125 cartons or 1,500 boxes of cookies.

Flag Ceremony

Last Thursday evening representatives from each troop at the school took part in a very impressive two-part flag ceremony at the P.T.A. meeting. The girls cut out the stars from the stripes in the old flag, then went out and came in with the new 50-star flag which the P.T.A. had purchased.

Two of the Brownie Scouts represented Hawaii and Alaska in the ceremony and in addition there were two color guards and a flag bearer. Pictures were taken and will appear in this newspaper later.

Mrs. Ernie Eighinger, No. 3 N. Crescnet Drive, is leader of Brownie Troop No. 10, another new troop organized this year at Franklin school. There are 15 2nd graders in the troop. Mrs. Glen Sims, 346 East Michigan, is assistant leader and members of the troop committee are Mrs. Harriett Horn, 1340 S. Clay, and Mrs. Catherine Chamberlain, 1045 South East street. The girls had their first meeting on January 19th and since that time have been learning about the Brownie Scout program and making gifts. They made Easter baskets and are now completing hot pads for Mother's Day Gifts and will then make gifts for their fathers. They elect officers every 6 to 7 weeks and have learned many new games and songs.

Brownie Troop No. 71 is made up of 16 3rd graders, who were registered last November for the first time. Mrs. Barks began as the troop leader but is now leader of Troop No. 12, so Mrs. Betty Jouett, 718 Hardin avenue, who was the assistant leader, is now the leader. Her assistant is Mrs. Marian Schell, 120 Spaulding Place. Members of the troop committee are Mrs. Mary J. Grant, 228 Brown street; Mrs. Gladys Alderman, 1054 South East street, and Mrs. Mary Frieberg, 342 East Beecher avenue.

A new Brownie, Donna Duggins, was added to the troop last week. These 16 energetic enthusiastic Brownies last week made 72 place mats and took them to the Meline Nursing home on North Church street. They toured the building, visited the kitchen and sang songs for the residents. They had an Easter party which the girls enjoyed very much. Now they are looking forward eagerly to camp and other activities which will include an all-day hike with sack lunches next Saturday and a trip either to Springfield, Hannibal or New Salem in the near future.

Third Year Troop

Mrs. W. C. Everett, 1002 South East street, is leader of Brownie Troop No. 48 and this troop has just registered for the third time, making it the troop which has been organized the longest at Franklin school. Mrs. Everett was troop leader last year also. Four adults originally registered with the troop are still serving which is quite a record. Mrs. Russell Lewis, 749 East Chambers, and Mrs. Charles Quizz, 1220 South East street, are assistant leaders.

Mrs. Lewis is also troop organizer for Franklin school and was in charge of this year's cookie sale. This is her third year in Scouting as well as Mrs. Quigg's third year.

Members of the troop committee are Mrs. R. D. Minor, 321 East Chambers; Mrs. Karl Van Meter, 5 South Crescent Drive; (both of whom are registered for the third year) and Mrs. Lavora Gray, 921 Goltra avenue, who has been in Scouting two years.

There are 18 girls in the troop and all of them took part in the cookie sale. Linda Quigg sold 100 boxes, entitling her to a camperships. She was the only girl in Franklin school to sell 100 boxes. Theme for the year was the American Indian. They took favors to a nursing home in the fall and at Eastertime to Oaklawn Sanatorium. They are now busy with camping plans and will close the year's activities with an outing (rain) and Mrs. Lavara Gray, in the near future. They plan to have a fly-up ceremony next fall and will spend the summer studying the requirements for Intermediate Girl Scouts.

Troop Activities

Brownie Troop No. 69 of Bluffs entertained their parents at a family night last week, holding a typical business meeting to show their parents what a Brownie troop does. They also demonstrated folk dances, sang songs, and then served refreshments of Girl Scout cookies, coffee and Kool-aid. The meeting was held at the Civic club building in Bluffs. Mrs. Tom Brackett is the troop leader and Mrs. Dan Likes, her assistant.

The older Intermediate Girl Scouts of Troop No. 27 of Jonathan Turner school last week completed 60 Easter favors for Passavant hospital. The favors were nests of crepe paper filled with Easter eggs. Mrs. Ralph Sullivan is troop leader.

Mrs. Robert Harp, leader of Troop No. 23 of South Jacksonville school, took her 4th grade Brownies on a tour of the New Method Book Bindery in Morton avenue last week. Usually Brownie troops are considered too young to visit the plant because of the dangerous machinery but Mrs. Harp reports the girls were very well behaved and learned a good deal from the tour. Mrs. William E. Smith, assistant leader, also accompanied the girls.

Beale Street Blues

Tennessee Honors Memory Of W. C. Handy, Father Of The Blues

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Beale Street, where the blues began, is a lonesome echo now.

Stroll of a warm evening along its mile and half length and you might catch the wail of a blues singer. Look in a window and you find it's a jukebox. Beale Street once was the liveliest, noisiest, singingest street in the land.

Recognition that Beale Street is history comes Sunday when a statue to W. C. Handy, father of the blues who died two years ago, will be dedicated in tiny Handy Park, a dab of grass with 11 benches, lost amid the traffic.

The governor of Tennessee, the mayor of Memphis and a delegation of Tin Pan Alley songwriters from ASCAP I American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers — will be on hand to honor the memory of the great Negro composer and cornetist who sang of sin and sorrow in the Southland.

From the day his statue is unveiled "until the end of time," the soulful strains of "St. Louis Blues," "Beale Street Blues" and his other undying works are to be played on a record each day at sundown.

It probably will be the only authentic blues heard on Beale street, now a ramshackle pile of tilted wooden homes, store-front churches, barber shops, beauty parlors, pawn shops, law offices and cafes.

"No more art comes from here," says George Lee, longtime friend of Handy and widely known for his books and articles on Negro life.

Until the bawdy houses closed in the late Thirties, Beale Street was a magnet that drew Negro field hands from up and down the Mississippi Delta, from Arkansas, Missouri and Tennessee.

Liquor flowed, cards snapped, dice clicked, money vanished, tempers flared and Memphis became the murder capital of the United States. After the binge they stumbled back home, weary and broke, to begin again the backbreaking work along the levees and in the scorching cotton fields.

Their hangovers alone were enough to give birth to the mournful melodies that William Handy captured on paper while sitting in famed old Peewees' Bar in the early 1900s.

But times have changed, and so has the Negro's social and economic lot. The music is gone, too, with not much chance of coming back. Guy Lansky, whose Beale Street clothing store caters to dozens of jazz combos, dreams of someday opening a jazz joint in his cellar. He has been working on it for years, but he has no support. Many people think segregation would ruin its chances. The rest, he says ruefully, couldn't care less.

Dr. Daniel Malan, 74, Preacher-Politician, Made Apartheid An International Word

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Dr. Daniel Francois Malan, an unsmiling 74-year-old preacher-politician, made apartheid an international word.

The somber minister of the Dutch Reformed Church got his chance in 1948 when his Afrikaner Nationalists swept Gen. Jan Christian Smuts' moderate government out of power.

The doctrine of apartheid as drawn up by Afrikaner intellectuals was not designed to be deliberately oppressive. It was their solution to a centuries-old fear for white survival at the southern tip of the African continent.

Nationalist intellectuals, mostly professors at Stellenbosch University, sought to preserve racial culture and purity of the different races through strict segregation—to let each race develop along its own lines in its own partitioned area.

"Whites only" signs sprouted all over the nation.

No measure for curbing the aspirations of the blacks seemed too trifling or futile for the white supremacists.

One of the early measures was to cut down the grants for feeding African school children, on the ground the Negroes should be encouraged to become self-supporting.

All the pentup racialism of three centuries was turned against the Africans, Indians and colored race. And this in face of the circumstance that the growing South African economy and the very foundations of the nation's existence—gold mines and farms—were built on cheap black labor.

Malan did not invent segregation in South Africa. It had been practiced for three centuries.

The cornerstone of segregation policy—the Native Lands Act—was passed in 1913. It confined Negro ownership and tenancy land to reserves comprising about an eighth of the nation. Even then about half the Negro population lived outside the reserves on white farms or in cities. They were cut off from land ownership and forced into a low wage system which still prevails. The average Negro in Johannesburg earns $42 a month. For 400,000 mine workers on Witwatersrand the wage is $16 a month plus food and quarters.

The Immorality Amendment Act tightened up the law against relations between whites and Africans. The Population Registration Act provided that every person over 16 carry a card specifying race. The Group Areas Act provided for division of country and cities into definite areas for racial groups. A suppression of communism measure gave the minister of justice almost dictatorial powers to suppress organizations and penalize persons with the slightest tinge of Red. The merchant shipping bill segregated seamen.

Malan retired in 1954. Johannes Strijdom, a stern believer in white supremacy and the final success of apartheid, became prime minister.

Radio, TV Off Air Half Hour Tuesday For Defense Alert

Radio Station WLDS will join several hundred other radio stations in a nation-wide test of the CONELRAD system of emergency broadcasting next Tuesday, May 3rd, from 1:00 to 1:30 Daylight Time.

All radio and television stations will go off the air at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon as a part of OPERATION ALERT 60, the seventh annual Civil Defense Exercise.

Within seconds, selected radio stations in each area holding national defense emergency authorizations will return to the air on the CONELRAD frequencies of 640 or 1240 kilocycles. All television stations will remain off the air during the half hour test.

Operation Alert 60 will be keyed off in Jacksonville with the alert blast by the new Civil Defense siren.

The CONELRAD system of emergency broadcasting was developed by the federal government in cooperation with the broadcasting industry to provide the public with vital information in event of enemy attack or natural disaster. Super - sonic bombers and missiles can use the signals from radio and television stations as homing devices, but by using only the CONELRAD frequencies, such use is prevented. This is the third nation-wide drill of the system.

WLDS will switch to 1240 kilocycles for the drill and reduce power to limit interference to Springfield stations operating on the same spot on the dial. Reception will be limited to ten to fifteen miles.

A Civil Defense information program will be broadcast in cooperation with national, state and local defense agencies. Information of state and national importance will be relayed to the local station by a statewide network of FM stations. Part of the program will be local and features a brief talk by Jacksonville's Civil Defense Director, Dr. Vincent Lenth.

Health Officers Of County Urge Cleanup

Dr. James W. Chapman, health officer of the Morgan County Health Department, yesterday urged that every citizen of Jacksonville and the surrounding area get busy and clean up the winter's accumulation of tin cans, ashes, trash, and garbage.

As the weather gets warmer, this material provides breeding places for rats, flies, and mosquitoes, and thus may become a health hazard, Dr. Chapman said.

Sanitarian William D. Meyer of the health department further stressed that the Jacksonville Garbage and Refuse Ordinance requires that each citizen have his garbage and refuse removed to the landfill at least weekly during the summer months. Each citizen must provide a galvanized, metallic, leak-proof can with a tight fitting cover for storage of garbage.

Everyone is urged to clean-up before these insect and rodent pests get a chance to reproduce. "If each citizen cooperates voluntarily," said Dr. Chapman, "then our task of giving notices to property owners will be greatly reduced. Neighborhood surveys will be conducted to determine whether proper clean-up is being done."

IT'S EASY WITH A "HOBLADIG"

Professor George Horton (left) operates his "HOBLADIG" (Horton's Blackboard Digital Computer) while Professor Arthur Hallerberg (right) examines an Abacus—two of the props to be used in a series of two lectures to be given early in May by the Illinois College professors. The subjects to be covered are: high speed computing methods and electronic data processing.

The first lecture entitled, "From Abacus to UNIVAC", will be given by Professor Hallerberg, on Tuesday, May 3, at 7:30 P.M. in Jones Lecture Hall. It will deal with the historical development of computing devices — the operation of punched card systems — and electronic computers. The lecture will be illustrated with slides.

The second lecture will be given by Professor Horton, on Tuesday, May 10, at 7:30 P.M. in Jones Lecture Hall. This lecture will make use of his special blackboard dubbed by Professor Horton as "HOBLADIG". On this board the actual electronic processes of most of the computers in current use will be simulated by crayon-and-eraser techniques. Most of the essential programming elements will be brought into use. A quick glance at a few of the fundamental operations of an electronic computer will be followed by the solving of some typical problems, each illustrating a point in the process of programming.

High school Mathematics and Science students in this area as well as I.C. students and the general public are invited to attend.

Pennsylvania's Former Miners Resent Status—Kept Husbands

COALDALE, Pa. (AP) — "I just couldn't believe a healthy, willing guy like me couldn't get a decent job. I had to face it, though. I couldn't. So the wife went to work in a dress factory. Making me a sort of kept husband, the way I felt."

It's a onetime coal miner sounding off. He put into stark, human terms the impact of the economic shakeup which has made breadwinners of so many women in these anthracite lands of eastern Pennsylvania.

His name might be Tony, Joe, Mac or Jan. Uncomfortable in his strange role, unable to understand why his world collapsed, why he can't earn a living with strong hands, his pride prevents him from posing for pictures, or permitting use of his name.

Others have outgrown their embarrassment.

"Housework is right for the woman. It's no good for the man. But I guess we've got to do it," says Zane Kuzman, fit as ever at 47. For 18 years he dug hard coal. When bad times closed the mine he couldn't find a job. His wife Rose went to work in a garment factory. Zane started keeping house for Rose and their daughters, Bonnie, 11, and Sandy, 17.

Kuzman's story is typical of thousands in this coal country where 20 years ago more than 75,000 men worked in the mines. Now there are fewer than 18,000 —and the total shrinks every year.

Twenty years ago the garment industry employed 9,200 women in this region. Partly as the result of many community boostrap projects designed to attract factories, today it employs more than 46,000.

Pennsylvania's coal county is believed to be the only region in America where so many families are supported by women. It's not that the miner won't work. He simply has become an economic has-been.

"Like most of the others, I'm at the wrong age," he says. "When you go after a job and ask for an application blank, they first ask your age. When I say 47, they right away say 'Too old.' I don't even see an application blank. It's the same with the rest of the guys. After 40 you're done. I can't understand it. They just won't talk to you about a job.

"Let me tell you something else. Every man who worked in the mines knows something besides digging coal. They know some trade. They are plumbers, carpenters, pipefitters, electricians. Any of these guys could fit right in as a helper on almost any job. I hope some industry will see that here we have a ready-made labor force, willing and eager to work."

The husband and wife working team is a commonplace of American society. Here it has different twists. Even when the male has some kind of job, many a wife earns more than her husband. Some husbands are long distance commuters, returning home only for weekends. The wife works both to help with the family budget and to overcome loneliness.

In dressmaking plants you can see mother and daughter, even grandmother and granddaughter, working side by side, equal as wageearners. Because they have become wage-earners, the women are attaining a self-sufficiency and independence new, but not always welcome, to this part of the country.

Over the state the average earnings of women garment workers are $45 to $60 a week, mostly for piece work. This doesn't compare, of course, with what a miner could make. But women—chiefly because of the economic necessity—have flocked to the plants. In Schuylkill County, one out of every four women works in the garment industry.

Many homes have three, four, or more women breadwinners. Then the family income adds up to more than the man alone could earn.

The women of eastern Pennsylvania take their new status quite seriously, but without illusions. A sampling of what they think about playing a man's part produced this general position:

"We're not trying to wear the pants. And you couldn't exactly call us career women. When the coal slump set in somebody had to do something. We were that somebody. A lot of us would rather be home instead of in a factory. And we'd rather have our men drawing good pay and doing what real men want to do."

Sunbeam Class Plans Auction For Organ Fund

The Sunbeam class of the Chapin Christian Church held its April meeting at the home of Barbara White. Fourteen members and three guests were present. The president, Mrs. Ruth Six, was in charge. During the business meeting, it was reported the class had netted $28.05 from our recent bake sale.

The Sunbeams have recently started the organ fund for the church. It was decided to have an auction sale in the latter part of June with the proceeds going for the organ. Virginia Goodrich, Mardell Rigor, Mary McDannald and Inez Putnam are the committee in charge of this project.

It is hoped for a good response for articles for the auction. Anyone wanting large pieces to be picked up, contact one of the committee. Cash donations will be accepted at the bank or by Virginia Goodrich, treasurer.

Mrs. Barbara Crews will be hostess to our meeting on May 25.

West Virginia Politics Seem Just Right For Sen. Humphrey

By ARTHUR EDSON

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — West Virginia politics seem especially homespun for the likes of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn).

Much has been made of what the religious issue may mean in the Democratic presidential primary here May 10. To much, both candidates agree.

But even if Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) weren't a Roman Catholic running in a predominantly Protestant state Humphrey would have a lot of other things going for him in West Virginia.

For Humphrey speaks the language of the country.

He can tear into the Republicans with the fervor of a fundamentalist preacher on revival day.

He can go into the industrial areas, and point to his votes on union labor legislation.

And when he hits the areas where the hills are high and the income is low, he can, and does, remind voters that, unlike the well-to-do Kennedys, the Humphreys have seen some mighty hard times.

"I know what it is to be poor," Humphrey will say, and he looks hungrily at the voters who obviously know what it means to be poor, too.

Yet so great is the magic of the Kennedy name that even here Humphrey is no shoo-in. Humphrey says he is the underdog, and he could be right. As of now, neutral observers are saying it could be close right down to the wire.

This reporter has spent two days traveling over West Virginia roads with Humphrey — a trip that started here and wound up, many a hairpin curve later, in the northeastern part of the state, at Charlestown.

For anyone without Humphrey's eternal optimism, this journey would have been written off as a disaster.

It was poorly planned. No one went ahead to drum up interest. (Political crowds rarely show up spontaneously; a large gathering usually means a little thinking and a lot of hard work have been combined to make it successful.)

The second day was particularly bad.

Humphrey was up at 5:30 to shake hands at a plant, and then he was off on a long, tiring trip. He hit the small towns mostly, and after seven speeches, usually from the courthouse square, he probably hadn't addressed more than 700 persons.

Curiously, this in a way serves to prove Humphrey's point: that the role of a fiscally troubled politician is fearfully hard.

"I hardly have the money to drive that bus down the road," he told one group, "Much less buy an airplane."

Whether money means as much as Humphrey says it does, whether Kennedy spends as much as Humphrey hints, whether Humphrey has as little to spend as he contends — these are subjects for political historians and public accounts to mull over.

But there's no doubt that Humphrey drives himself hard in a business where a constant flurry seems to be standard operating procedure. He even attends to such details as making sure that the girls who pass out Humphrey literature are ready to spring from the bus the moment it grinds to a halt.

No small detail is missed.

Marvin Crouch, who drives the car with the loudspeakers, eagerly reported to the senator that he had just scored a political victory.

It seems that Jerry West, the great basketball player at West Virginia University, had been asked to nominate Kennedy at a mock student convention. West had agreed, Crouch said, on the theory the nomination didn't mean anything.

Fortunately, Crouch and West come from Cabin Creek, W.Va., and Crouch used the old home loyalty — plus the hint that this might be considered treasonable by West's future employers, the Minneapolis Lakers' pro basketball team.

"I talked him out of it all right," Crouch said.

Humphrey beamed approvingly.

In West Virginia, which could be the end of the presidential trail for Hubert H. Humphrey, no stone nor basketball player will be left unturned.

Accept New Members For AMVET Post

Jacksonville AMVET Post 100 held its last regular meeting April 26 with Commander Fred Daniels presiding. Colors were posted by Provost Marshal C. Hayes and H. W. Dodsworth, finance officer, gave his semi-monthly financial report.

Amvet Raymond Arthalony was reported ill and a patient in Passavant Hospital.

Mention was made as to the progress of this year's AMVETS State Convention which will be held in Peoria June 16 through 19.

Past Commander John P. Beadles gave a report on this year's Children's Easter Party which was held at the Lincoln State School and Colony stating that over 500 Easter baskets were distributed by AMVETS to the children of the home.

It was reported that among the activities scheduled for the month of May are the Elks Bowling banquet on May 7; the Passavant Nurses banquet on May 13; the World War I Barracks District meeting May 15; the Ladies Bowling banquet on May 17 and the Jay Cees banquet and dance on May 28.

It was reported that one of the biggest and most important fund raising drives in the history of AMVETS is now under way and with the deadline, May 15, AMVETS everywhere are being called to help raise the $15,000 AMVETS has pledged to the U.S.S. Arizona Memorial Honor Roll Shrine at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

This pledge is to be used for installation of a memorial carillon and wall plaque listing the names of the 1102 crew members who lost their lives when the U.S.S. Arizona was sunk. National Commander Berc has asked each member of AMVETS and the Auxiliary to contribute a minimum of $1 to this special shrine fund. Each contributor will receive a card identifying him or her as a member of the AMVETS Arizona Memorial Crew.

Construction of the memorial itself is expected to be completed some time late this fall and is expected to be dedicated on Dec. 7, 1960.

Commander Fred Daniels, commander of Jacksonville AMVET Post 100, urges all local AMVETS and Auxiliary members to contribute to this memorial fund and asks that they take or mail their contributions to the local Post Home, 210 E. Court street.

At the close of the meeting members stood in a moment of silence in memory of their departed comrades, colors were retrieved and the meeting adjourned.

R. Black's One Man Show Dramatic

From the entrance construction, where in is set the theme of simple planes, through the myriad squares of his oil painting, "The Crowd," the artist achieves a sense of movement in space.

The spacing of the geometric forms and vibration of the colors give movement to the abstract paintings without recourse to conventional perspective.

Other wood cuts that are shown in the room can be studied with the blocks from which they were printed hanging nearby. The whole exhibition is characterized by a care and precision that is a fantasy of rhythm.

Mrs. Charles Frank will conduct a Gallery Night at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday evening, May 4th. At this time the artist will be present to comment on the work.

Chief Urges Cleanup Of Premises As Fire Inspection Begins

Jacksonville firemen will start Monday a systematic round of inspections of all business establishments, with detection of fire hazards as their aim.

Acting Fire Chief Byron Holkenbrink has designated this week as Community Cleanup Week. He urged in a statement Saturday that all home owners cooperate by cleaning up around their homes and lawns.

"Every campaign has a slogan," Holkenbrink said, and citizens might adopt "Clean Up, Don't Burn Up," as theirs. "Those are practical words and advice that all should heed."

Members of the fire department will go into basements, attics, and other parts of buildings in their search for hazards, which will be reported to owners or tenants.

Alvin Smith, fire department engineer, has jotted down a list of things the public can do to help make Community Cleanup Week successful. These include:

Clean up your own home and grounds.

Join in a neighborhood project to correct eye sores and fire hazards in your block or on your street.

Take an active part in civic Campaigns. Visit your Fire Department to see how it operates, and how you can be of help.

Read carefully the pamphlets your school children will be bringing home.

Most Important—If you do have a fire, no matter how it happens or when it happens, call the Fire Department at once, CH 5-4141.

On business matters or for further information, call CH 5-6101.

What Happens To Italian Village When Each Peasant Is Given $1,200 In Stocks?

SAN MARCO D'URRI, Italy (AP)—Nothing illuminates poverty so clearly as sudden wealth.

"We can now afford the luxury of a flower pot or two in our window," said one villager.

"Maybe now we can get a cow," said another.

"Or another pig," said a third.

"At least, now my son can stay in college," said a fourth.

The drab grubby existence of life in this tiny mountain village suddenly has a new color, a new vitality. Suddenly people have plans, from a flower pot to a college education.

All because of the "bel regalo," the beautiful present which came last November from America, from the sons of an orphan befriended by San Marco d'Urri 100 years ago.

The gift was a block of 25 shares of Bank of America stock for every one of the 291 villagers. Since then, they have each received two dividend payments totaling $20.

In America, two people can spend more than $20 for a single meal.

In San Marco, two people can live a month on $20. It is almost as much as a man earns in a month.

So the gift from America means hope in a village where poverty is as old as the cracks in the walls of the houses hugging the mountainside. Most people began to make plans with their new money.

But poverty is so engrained here that some villagers refused to believe anyone would give them anything without a catch in it; they refused to sign the stock papers. Others accepted the gift but refused to spend any of it.

San Marco is tucked away in the rugged Appennine Mountains about 30 miles south of the great port city of Genoa and 10 miles inland from the plush Riviera. But the Riviera and Genoa are in one world, San Marco in another.

Even the biggest maps overlook it. The main highway misses it by a good three miles. The road into San Marco is little more than a rocky, mountain path, barely wide enough for a small car.

A score or two of houses, grizzled and cracked with age, make up San Marco. There are no streets. Steep, slippery footpaths, connect the homes, sprawling over a 2,000-foot hill with terrace after terrace of potato fields. The only store adjoining the only bar is perched a quarter of a mile up the hill from the tiny village church.

Little more than a hundred years ago—in 1858—the Avanzino family adopted an infant boy. The orphan grew up with the name of Leopoldo Saturno. Nobody remembers why the boy was given that name or where he came from.

San Marco then had twice as many residents, but its rocky fields could not support them all. Hungry stomachs spurred many ambitious village youngsters to leave. They went to America, to Australia, to other European countries.

When Leopoldo Saturno was 20, he left, too, for the United States. Ten years later he sent for an orphan girl of the village and married her.

In Reno, Nev., he built up a fortune in real estate. He corresponded regularly with the Avanzinos. Then in 1919 he died. The letters stopped, San Marco all but forgot the name of Saturno.

Then suddenly last year — 40 years after his death—San Marco heard the name again, in an electifying way. Saturno's two wealthy sons, Joseph and Victor, decided to do something for their father's hometown. They had never seen it. But they had heard him and their mother talk about it. They hit on gifts of bank stock worth a third of a million dollars.

Bank of America officials delivered the stock certificates last Nov. 8.

There were skeptics in Italy who said the villagers would sell their stock as soon as they got it and squander the money.

However, the skeptics overlooked the reputation for frugality among residents of the Genoa area. Italians call the Genoese the Scotch of Italy.

If anyone has sold his stock, he has not admitted it.

"It's not that we haven't had a chance to," said Telma Avanzino, 36, whose great grandparents reared Leopoldo Saturno. "The 'truffatori' (confidence men) came into San Marco the day after we received our stock certificates. But I don't know of anyone who sold out to them. The more they insisted, the more we realized we had something worth keeping."

The villagers have decided to build a memorial in a hillside clearing a few feet from the Avanzino home where Saturno grew up.

It is to consist of busts of Saturno and his wife Teresa, which a sculptor from a nearby Riviera town is to create from old photos. The cost should be less than $900, each villager chipping in a little from his dividend money.

They have written Saturno's two sons that the memorial will be ready in summer, and the two men have promised to come here for the unveiling.

Until then—and perhaps after—the brothers will remain something of a mystery in San Marco. They are Americans who have never been in Italy. They don't even speak Italian. Their letters have to be sent to Genoa for translation.

"How will we talk with them?" one villager wondered.

"Don't worry," another replied. "When men have a heart like theirs, it is easy to talk with them, in any language."

Presents Paper At Miami On 'Gifted Drifter'

Leroy J. Garrett, assistant professor of Philosophy at MacMurray College, attended a meeting of the National Association for Gifted Children, April 28-29, at Miami Beach, Fla.

He read a paper on "The Gifted Drifter," based on an experiment at Jacksonville high school in working with high-IQ students whose grades did not reflect their intelligence. At one point, he had 12 students in one phase of his program with average IQ's of 120 who finished school near the bottom of their class.

"The problem is proper motivation techniques," says Dr. Garrett, who also taught a course at JHS for high-IQ students who were high achievers. "I believe that a study of values in a segregated class of superior students is a strong motivation for such students."

Bloodmobile To Operate May 6 At Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE — The Bloodmobile unit of the American Red Cross will make its next visit to Jersey county May 6 and will be set up at the First Baptist church, Jerseyville, between the hours of twelve noon and 6 p.m. that day.

Persons 18 through 59 are accepted for blood donations but young men, unmarried and not yet 21 years of age, must present a signed parental consent form. These may be obtained by calling the Red Cross office, phone 457.

This visit will close the fiscal year for the Jersey county blood program. At this time 425 pints of blood have been collected toward the yearly quota of 750 points. Unless the differences in these figures can be collected at the May 6 visit of the Bloodmobile, the local program will fall far short of its goal.

Workers should take particular note that the Bloodmobile is in operation after working hours and donors will be accepted up until six o'clock.

Mrs. Paul Richey is chairman of the Blood Program in Jersey county and Mrs. Lloyd Sunderland, Sr., is co-chairman.

PENNIES PAY FOR DIPLOMA

A penny doesn't buy much these days, but when Miss Velma Sonneborn got enough of them, they paid for the crowning touch of her college education.

Miss Sonneborn, a fourth grade teacher at the Greenfield elementary school, deposited a large glass jar containing $15 in pennies as she paid her graduating fee Friday afternoon at MacMurray College.

"I've been saving pennies since 1944 just for this purpose," she said as she placed the heavy jar on a desk.

Miss Sonneborn has been attending classes during the summer and evenings at MacMurray, where on June 5 she will receive a degree in elementary education.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sonneborn of Palmyra.

'BRAG ON QUALITY'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It wasn't long ago that it was unheard of to rehearse an entire movie script before filming.

Director Delbert Mann claims much of the credit for starting the practice. He began it with "Marty" and now is on his sixth film. convinced that preproduction rehearsing saves both time and money.

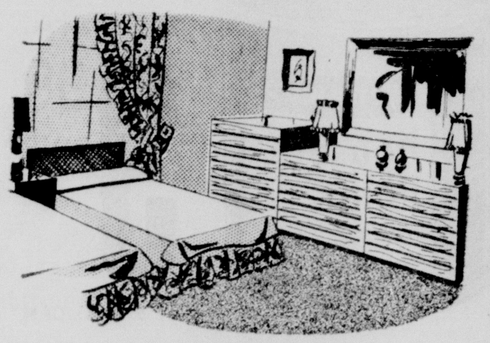

He's using the stage techniques in converting the Broadway hit, "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," into a movie.

The cast first ran through the entire script, and then turned to rehearsing on stage before the actual filming.

Adding CHARM to YOUR Home

by Edna C. Gustine

THE PINK OF PERFECTION

Pink has recently become one of fashion's favorites — especially in home interiors. One of the reasons for this is that it combines so well with so many other colors, and is appropriate in almost any room in the home.

When we think of pink, we are often inclined to limit it to a pale camellia shade. But today's smart pinks run a gamut of hues from deep dramatic shocking pink through the pale pastel shades. Inbetween we find a new shade called Winter Pink — sandalwood brown with pink overtones, the apricot pinks, and the wide range of lilac pinks.

Pale lilac pink and sage green compose an interesting and novel color scheme for a small living room. The brown pinks accented with black and white are excellent in rooms where a sophisticated effect is desired.

In a bedroom for the young — and the young in heart — there's nothing quite like the combination of soft camellia pink and French blue. This color scheme is responsible for much of the charm of the Contemporary bedroom sketched.

Twin beds separated by a night table are framed by the pretty window treatment. Wall space has been ingeniously utilized by using a combination of unit pieces. Carpet, chair cushions and accessories are French blue.

Whether you're doing a frilly, frothy, feminine bedroom, a sophisticated, stylized room for a young bachelor, or a sleek Modern bedroom for two, we have the furniture and sleeping equipment for you here. Do come in, let us show you all our new distinctive furniture.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market in April took a sharp loss, disappointing hopes that first quarter earnings news would permit a spring rally.

The quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange fell an estimated six billion dollars during April, based on the fall in the Associated Press average. This put the total market value of stocks listed on the exchange at around 281 billion dollars.

The mixed nature of corporate financial reports, further indications of a squeeze on earnings and forecasts that second quarter results would not be as good as those for the first quarter helped dampen sentiment. As some stocks declined despite record profits, analysts observed earnings are only a record of past performance, not of the future.

The averages took their third straight weekly loss in the week just ended.

The AP 60-stock average fell 3.80 to 209.70, its sharpest dip since the week ended March 5 when it dropped 7.10.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 14.62 to 601.70.

This drop brought the Dow industrials near the 1960 closing low of 599.10 reached March 8. This is regarded by Wall Streeters as a "support level" which may or may not hold. If it holds, the market is expected to rise again. If it fails to hold, a decline to around 585 for another "test" would be in order, theoretically.

As in the week previous, blue chips sagged under the apparent weight of stock for sale, apparently by some pretty big investors. But a minority of gainers in assorted groups won a following and posted gains.

Volume was 14,972,960 shares compared with 14,969,137 the previous week.

The overall statistics continued to show an increasing downtrend. Of 1,423 issues traded, 922 declined and 361 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 115 and new lows 358.

Most active stock this week on the New York Stock Exchange was American Motors, off 1⅜ at 26⅜ on 366,700 shares. Most active on the American Stock Exchange was New Haven Clock, up ⅛ at 2⅛ on 176,600 shares.

The government bond market placed its stamp of approval this week on Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson's refunding offer for $6,400,000,000 of expiring May maturities.

The new one-year 4⅜% certificates and five-year 4⅝% notes, on which subscription books will be open Monday through Wednesday, made their initial market bow Friday in when-issued trading.

Each closed at 100 1-32 bid, after having run up earlier to 100 4-32 bid.

For the week, the government bond list showed a slight advance.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — The 38,000 butcher hogs on sale here this week comprised the largest supply for any week since the middle of February and prices turned downward again, the second successive weekly setback.

The declines were the first for a weekly period since the first of the year.

Offerings under 230 lbs were 25 to 50 cents lower while weights over 260 lbs were down as much as $1 as shipper demand slackened somewhat after Monday.

The cost of all barrows and gilts shipped to the lowest average in a month.

With the cattle supply off 20 per cent from last week, high good to prime slaughter steers advanced $1.50 a hundredweight at the extreme. However, average good grade and below were $1 lower in spots.

The top of $33.50 paid one day this week was equal to the highest price paid since last May.

Slaughter lambs were steady to $1 lower with the setback on old crop offerings. The supply was boosted about 35 per cent over last week.

Shipper demand was slow throughout the week and clearance of offerings was incomplete on three or four days.

Film

"They Go to Live" was the title of a film shown this past week when the members of the Scott County Tuberculosis Association met in the office of the Illinois Public Aid Commission in Winchester. The film was made at the National Jewish Hospital in Denver to illustrate some of the advances being made in the search for a cure of tuberculosis. This hospital is one of the country's most outstanding in research. Care is available to anyone who cannot pay for their own. The following motto is enscribed on a plaque at the entrance, "None may enter who can pay, none can pay who enter."

Following the film Stanley Faris spoke to those present about the organization of a county committee to participate in the White House Conference on Aging. As the number of aging citizens grows in our community, the need for development of a program to help cope with the resulting problems has greatly increased. Aging is a sure prospect for all of us, and early preparation of a plan for facing middle years will help us all.

The first step in this direction will be taken at a county-wide meeting to which everyone is invited to bring any ideas, questions or suggestions. Notification of a definite date will be announced later.

An executive planning committee was appointed including Dr. William O'Reilly, Mrs. L. A. Watt, Mrs. Clyde North and William McLaughlin. Mrs. Maurice C. Funk was appointed publicity chairman.

Those attending this meeting were Mrs. Hal Montgomery, Mrs. Clarence Wilson, Dr. William O'Reilly, Charles Shipley, Mrs. C. L. McLaughlin, Mrs. Leo Campbell, Mrs. Roy Kaltschnee, Jr., Mrs. William Watt, Mrs. L. A. Watt, Mrs. Temple I. Grout, Mrs. Clyde North, Mrs. Maurice Funk, William McLaughlin, B. F. State Lawmakers Map Plans For Fight On Reform

(R-Springfield) to allow the governor to veto the mayor's appointments to the Chicago Police Board.

Stratton did not comment on the residency proposal by Rep. William G. Clark of Chicago, Democratic majority leader.

A spokesman for Stratton said he was not committed to any bill but was inclined to consider the residency matter inseparable from provision governing police hiring and firing.

Republicans control the Senate. Democrats have a slim House majority, with Speaker Paul Powell of Vienna considered able to sway the decision. A general election comes in November.

Stratton will make known his plans to the Legislature Tuesday noon. Democrats will caucus at once to determine reaction.

The governor issued his formal session call Friday, listing six areas for legislation. Emergency funds for poor relief, the first reason to arise for the special session, and police reform, were the prime concerns.

The police reform proposals developed when some Chicago police were accused of conniving with burglars.

In a reform stroke, the Chicago City Council created a five-man board which appointed a University of California dean, Orlando W. Wilson, as a new police superintendent. The naming of Wilson and two police board members who reside in Chicago suburbs touched off the question of their eligibility to serve.

Daley called "cheap politics" the bill by Drach, Senate Majority whip. It would give the governor limited veto power over appointments to the five-man Chicago Police Board. It would also set up a merit system for police separate from city civil service.

The poor relief appropriation will supplement money voted by the 1959 session which welfare officials say will not last past September.

Stratton also listed these items on the special session agenda:

Eliminations of a special primary for justices of the peace and constables; requiring justices of the peace to report to county boards on the number of cases handled and fees collected; changing legal population categories so some large downstate counties may continue to elect rather than appoint auditors even if their populations go beyond 300,000 in the current census; provide state aid funds for emergency relief to flood-stricken areas.

Stratton made a surprising addition to the list of special session subjects. He asked appropriation of funds for acquiring lands in the Chicago Medical Center district for a tuberculosis clinic to be operated by the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

CLAIM PARAGUAYAN INVASION REPELLED

however.

Informed sources in Argentina said the rebels launched their invasion into southeast Paraguay from Posada, Argentine border point, and other places and were in greater strength than last December when an invasion force of about 1,000 was crushed.

The Posada informants said most of the insurgents are members of a Fourteenth of May movement which launched the unsuccessful December invasion. May 14 is Paraguay's Independence Day.

Stroessner, 47, charged that the earlier invaders were political delinquents supported and financed by Castro's government.

He and his aides are angry now at Cuba, Argentina and Venezuela. Paraguayan officials in Montevideo, Urugvay, accused both Cuba and Venezuela of helping the revolt and promising the rebels diplomatic recognition. They complain that Argentina has been harboring rebels who trained in Argentine border territory for the latest invasion.

Youth, 18, Sought In Rape-Beating Of Waitress, 16

CHICAGO (AP) — A youth who failed to return to a state youth rehabilitation camp after an Easter furlough was sought for questioning Saturday in the rape-beating of a 16-year-old waitress.

The victim, Miss Marilyn Rae Duncan, was found on a Northwest Side railroad right-of-way early Saturday, bludgeoned into semiconsciousness. She was clad only in a black coat. Police said a bloody brick lay near her head. Her other clothing had been torn to shreds and was strewn nearby.

Authorities at Resurrection Hospital termed the girl's condition critical. She lost consciousness en route to the hospital. The left side of her face and head were beaten severely and her lips were split from an apparently heavy blow. Physicians confirmed she had been raped.

Police sought Jerry Nemke, 18, who was listed as absent without leave from the Illinois Youth Commission camp at Marseilles. Camp Director Stan Potter said the youth had been granted a one-week leave over Easter but that he never returned. Furloughs are granted on a merit basis, he said.

Officers said a pair of sunglasses identified as Nemke's were found along the railroad tracks. Heavy early morning rains made it difficult to determine whether the Duncan girl had been attacked near the tracks or dragged there.

Nemke was sought after Mary Lou Beckler, a girl friend of the victim, reported to police that Miss Duncan had left her home about 9:30 p.m. Friday with Nemke.

The nearly lifeless girl was discovered by a Chicago and North Western Railway train crew which notified police.

law. They flew into Istanbul from Tehran. Driving in from the airport they passed through columns of tanks and rifle-bearing soldiers.

Troops and tanks had moved before their arrival to put down the biggest antigovernment incidents.

Infantrymen with bayoneted rifles removed 2,000 student sit-down strikers from the University of Istanbul campus to temporary detention camps, on charges of violating martial-law regulations.

The students, who had held out for 18 hours, appeared tired, hungry, and drawn. Some chanted freedom slogans and sang patriotic songs as they filed to waiting army trucks. There were 100 girls in the group.

About 1,000 students and other youths, defying a martial-law ban on public gatherings, later paraded before the troop-guarded Municipal Building.

With Turkish flags flying, they shouted "Freedom"

Thousands of soldiers stood shoulder to shoulder in the dusty heat. Tanks were drawn up at every approach. Helicopters whirled overhead.

There was no clash as in earlier incidents in which students insist 11 of their number have been killed, but tanks followed the marchers and gradually pushed them into side streets.

Roving students demonstrated elsewhere in bands of 40 to 50 in Istanbul, though armored columns were stationed at strategic points and troops stood with their rifles at key intersections.

About 1,000 persons elsewhere in Istanbul were reported taken into custody.

An 11-hour curfew was ordered, effective from 8 p.m. Saturday until 7 a.m. Sunday. As a further precaution, the military commander in Istanbul, Lt. Gen. Fahri Ozdilek, ordered closing of the two principal bridges across the Golden Horn. The Golden Horn is a narrow neck of water which divides Istanbul.

Universities and colleges in both Istanbul and Ankara have been ordered to shut down for a month, and out-of-town students have been directed to return to their homes.

In Ankara, law students from the University of Ankara attempted to stage a silent demonstration against Menderes' government. Three motorized columns and a mounted police company dispersed them quietly.

GRAIN FUTURES PRICES RISE ON OUTSIDE INFLUENCE

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Solid commercial factors were rather scarce in the grain market this week but prices finished generally higher on outside influences, such as a government report on supplies.

All contracts except nearby corn were steady to strong for the week as a whole with most deliveries ahead major fractions or more. Rye led the advances with gains upward from a cent.

Old crop soybeans were the most active months, moving alternately up and down over a fairly broad range but finishing unchanged from a week ago. On one day the May delivery was at its lowest price of the season.

After pushing to the rim of its previous peaks twice, May wheat finally cracked through to a new peak before retreating on moderate profit taking. The setbacks failed to squelch the bullish sentiment, however, and at the end of the week it was again within a small fraction of the top.

The government report early in the week on the stocks of grain in all positions as of April 1 provided some lift in spots but while some dealers called it mildly bullish others construed it as bearish. Net price changes on that account, therefore, were small.

Most trade interest appeared to center on old crop wheat and soybeans as those deliveries approached the showdown period on deliveries in the pit. Friday was the first day for tenders on contract and brokers said the volume of offers probably would be among controlling considerations in price-making for the next few weeks.

Trading in May contracts will end on May 20. Should tenders be heavy, as expected in soybeans, long interests in the market probably will take the initiative toward liquidation.

However, if offers to deliver are light, as is possible in wheat, the short side of the market could find itself on the defensive and obliged to bid prices higher in order to cover commitments.

It should be remembered that speculative traders especially almost never deliver or accept delivery. Their market positions often comprise a large percentage of the open interest and their operations, thus, could have a strong impact on fluctuations.

Commercial buyers were absent from the trade most days but export interests were active at times.

At the end of the week, wheat was ½-1¼ cents a bushel higher, May $2.10⅞-¾; corn ⅜ lower to ¼ higher, May $1.18⅜-½; oats unchanged to 1¼ higher, May 76-75¾; rye 1¼-1½ higher, May $1.22½-¾; soybeans ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, May $2.12⅜.

Strong Winds, Snow Swirl In Michigan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The sheriff's office reported that high winds, possibly tornadic, damaged buildings and felled trees on a farm 20 miles southwest of Kalamazoo.

Wind also wrecked a plane, damaged two others and blew off a section of a hangar roof at the airport at Dowagiac.

"Everything looked like it had been blown apart from inside," said the airport manager, Grady Detion.

The snow whirled in Michigan's upper peninsula on the opening day of the trout season.

Gusty winds swept snow and rain across the Midwest, toppling temperatures and setting off frost and freeze warnings—on the eve of May.

A large tree, toppled by a strong wind, crushed four automobiles in the downtown section of Chesterton, Ind. A woman was in one of the cars and she narrowly escaped injury.

Light snow also fell in Wausau, Wis., Saturday and during the night in Kansas City Mo., and most of Iowa.

The mercury plunged to 13 above zero in Laramie, Wyo., and Leadville, Colo., and dropped below the freezing level in the northern Rockies and much of the Midwest.

Frost or freeze warnings were issued for Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

Gale signals were hoisted on the Great Lakes as the storm center moved eastward.

Parts of the South also took a whipping from the rough weather. Wind and rainstorms blew across southern Louisiana Friday night and early Saturday, injuring three persons and causing property damage of several hundred thousand dollars.

POLITICS MAY INTERFERE

NEW YORK (AP) — Politics may interfere with Broadway stage productions next season for producer Roger L. Stevens, who is chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic Party.

He plans two new stage shows, but that may be all for which he can spare time. This season he has presented seven new stage productions including the recently arrived "Duel of Angels."

One of the new shows he plans to offer has a record before opening in the length of its title. It is a farce by Arthur L. Kopit and the title is "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Momma's Hung You In the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad."

A lock on an underground tank had apparently been cut and the gas removed. The incident is still under investigation.

Humphrey Slaps Back At Kennedy After Attack

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) slapped back at Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) Saturday, saying Kennedy was pushing the panic button in making personal attacks on him.

"It has always seemed rather amusing to me," Humphrey told a sidewalk crowd in the lumber town of Richwood, "to see Jack (Kennedy) publicly challenge other candidates to enter the primaries, and then when someone does enter, he complains there is a conspiracy to stop him and deny him the nomination.

"Politics is a serious business, not a boy's game where you can pick up your ball and run home if things don't go according to your idea of who should win."

Kennedy accused Humphrey Friday night of having "distorted my record, attacked my integrity, and played fast and loose with smears and innuendoes."

It was his strongest statement about Humphrey since the two began campaigning for the significant May 10 West Virginia presidential primary.

No Republican presidential hopefuls are entered. No write-ins are permitted. And the state's 25 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in July are not obligated to the winner.

Kennedy was all but speechless from the campaign wear and tear on his throat, but he was out Saturday touring the industrialized Charleston area.

He had to leave most of the speaking to an aide. With Kennedy standing by, Matt Reese of Huntington, hefty executive secretary of the West Virginians for Kennedy, told 200 persons at Madison that a vote for Humphrey would be wasted because "he cannot win the nomination."

"It seems to me," Reese said, "that Hubert Humphrey, perhaps not intentionally, is fronting for other candidates."

Humphrey inserted a veiled warning to Robert F. Kennedy, the senator's brother who has come to Charleston to take personal charge of the Kennedy campaign. Saturday night Robert compared Humphrey's campaign tactics with those of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis).

"I'd suggest," Humphrey told a

Amvets Auxiliary Presents Essay Contest Awards

Jacksonville AMVET Auxiliary meeting was held April 26 at the AMVET Home with President Eva Burns presiding.

The pledge of allegiance to the flag and the preamble was led by the sergeant-at-arms, Peggy Grady. Opening prayer was offered by the chaplain, Irene Hill.

President Burns presented trophies to winners of the Americanism Essay contest, first place being awarded to Joelle Million and second place being awarded to Barbara Harney. The local Americanism chairman is Naomi Moore.

Ada Mansfield was reported ill and in the hospital.

Minutes of the previous meeting and current correspondence was read by the secretary, June Dodsworth, and the treasurer's report was given by Marie Hart.

President Burns reported the following projects to be held during the month of May: Elks Bowling banquet, May 7; Passavant Nurses banquet, May 13; Ladies Bowling banquet, May 17, and the Jay Cees banquet on May 28 and asked the members to keep these date in mind and if possible to help with these projects.

Announcement was made of the State Executive meeting which will be held in Chicago May 1 and a number of members donated to the patrons page in the State Convention booklet.

Naomi Moore's name was drawn for the attendance prize, and closing prayer by the chaplain and meeting adjourned.

At the close of the meeting the AMVETS were invited to join with the Auxiliary in listening to a record, recorded by National Commander Berc in reference to the U.S.S. Arizona Memorial Fund, in which he urged all AMVET and Auxiliary members to contribute to this worthy cause.

CHRIST AND CUBA

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Back from a tour of Southern Baptist mission stations in Cuba, B. M. Crain, business manager of the denomination's Home Mission Board, says the island country has "religious freedom . . . for the first time."

"Our people feel safe to go and come at night to attend worship services as they please," he says. "The difference in the way the people live now and the way they used to live is startling."

"Southern Baptist missionaries in Cuba report today the greatest opportunity in history to win Cuba for Christ."

TRUMAN BLASTS HIS OLD ENEMY, NIXON, AT DEMO RALLY

Perhaps more by circumstance than plan, the party festivities at the big National Guard Armory Saturday night took on a Texas tinge that did nothing to detract from the quest Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is making for the nomination.

The dinner committee said some 5,200 persons had dipped into their wallets—a goodly number of them Texans—for tickets to the $100-a-plate affair. While other types of rallies have pulled far bigger turnouts, dinner Chairman Jess Larson unblushingly called it "the largest crowd in political history."

The objective was to collect something like half a million dollars for the Senate and House Democratic Campaign Committees.

As Senate majority leader, Johnson had a key role in the program. So did his fellow Texan, Rep. Sam Rayburn, the speaker of the House who is a sort of major domo of the unannounced Johnson campaign.

Johnson was selected to make some remarks of his own and introduce Truman as the principal orator of the evening. Rayburn was tapped for a brief speech.

Without naming him, Rayburn took occasion in his speech to rebuke Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler for his opposition to Johnson as a presidential candidate and for his demands for a possibly party-splitting civil rights plank. Butler has said Johnson can't win.

"Some of us have been irresponsible and ill-advised in recent months," Rayburn said. "Some people have gone around talking about driving Democrats out of the party. Others have said publicly that this candidate or that candidate can't be elected."

it," Rayburn said.

CHARITY BINGO GETS OFFICIAL OK

CHICAGO (AP) — Bingo games for charity in unincorporated areas of Cook County will not be raided by sheriff's police, a captain of the sheriff's major investigation unit said Saturday.

Capt. William McManigal said, "When complaints are received, we will investigate. If the game is for charity, we will let it go. However, if it is for private profit, it will be closed."

This policy differs from a recent Chicago crackdown on all forms of bingo.

Cardinal Albert G. Meyer, Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago, recently ordered his pastors to halt sponsorhip of bingo games. The decision was praised by Orlando W. Wilson, Chicago police superintendent, who said Chicago bingo games would be raided by police.

BUSY SEASON AHEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — Producer David Merrick, who has had as many as five profitable shows playing on Broadway at the same time, is headed for another prolific season this fall.

Merrick has scheduled eight new productions, the first to open about September. Four of the new ones will be musicals, including "The Street of the Laughing Camel," which is being adapted from Ben Lucien Burman's novel about a Texas cowboy who opens a laundry in Algeria.

quoted him as saying: "This is going to be a close election, whichever candidate wins, and a close election is usually decided in the last three to four weeks of the campaign.

"That is why I want to be as fresh both physically and mentally, as possible in that period. I think it would be most unwise to waste good ammunition now that could be much more effective later when it really counts."

Knight reported that Nixon, unlike some of his supporters, is not disturbed by indications in recent polls that the vice president's popularity has declined since last summer. Samplings taken after Nixon's trip to the Soviet Union and Poland in 1959 indicated that his prestige was at a very high level.

The editor said Nixon commented: "I happen to believe that the fluctuations in polls at this time and the news various candidates make are not nearly as significant as some political observers seem to think they are.

"I am resigned to the fact that it is necessary to take something of a back seat as far as publicity is concerned and suffer some erosion in the support indicated in the polls for the very reasons that you pointed out in your column."

Nixon referred to an observation in Knight's column of April 3. He told the editor: "You put your finger on a real problem when you indicated that I must be liberal enough to rid myself of the undeserved charge that I represent the Old Guard, yet conservative enough to present a contrast to the Democratic nominee."

Knight said Nixon is under fire, "both from the Barry Goldwater right and from some of the liberal Republicans who still would prefer Nelson Rockefeller as the party's candidate."

Goldwater is a GOP senator from Arizona, and Rockefeller is governor of New York.

The editor quoted Nixon as saying: "I intend to continue my present course—one that I have followed from the time I entered Congress in 1946—of standing for what I like to refer to as positive, progressive conservatism as contrasted to negative conservatism."

Nixon said he believes he can convince the voters, during the 1960 presidential campaign, that conservatives do a better job of solving national problems than liberals.

NOTICE TO VOTERS OF ROAD DISTRICT ONE

On Tuesday, May 3, 1960, at the Old Yatesville School, from 12:00 Noon to 6:00 P.M., D

Art Dufelmeier New Western Grid Coach

President A. L. Knoblauch of Western Illinois University named today a six-foot 200-pound backfield coach, who helped engineer 76 football victories in the last ten years, head coach at the Macomb university.

He is 30-year-old Arthur J. Dufelmeier.

The Big Ten star and member of a University of Illinois Rose Bowl champion team replaces Lous Saban. Early this spring Saban accepted head coaching duties with the Boston Patriots, a professional football team.

Dr. Knoblauch says that Dufelmeier was chosen from 150 candidates from throughout the nation and Canada.

"The candidates were screened by a committee of nine representing all departments of Western Illinois University. And we found our man on the teaching staff."

The President says that the final selection was made by a smaller committee which he chaired.

Dr. Knoblauch adds:

"Since Mr. Dufelmeier came to Western in 1949 the record reveals that the Leathernecks have made simple a fabulous football record. Coach Dufelmeier worked under three coaches, Vince DiFrancesca, Wes Stevens, and Lou Saban. In the ten years Western won 76 games, tied six and lost 19."

Just before Pearl Harbor and U. S. entry into World War II. Dufelmeier enrolled at the University of Illinois and earned his Varsity letter in 1942.

Entering the service in January 1943, he was soon over Europe as a B-24 gunner. In 1944 his B-24 was shot down over France. For 11 months he was a prisoner of war.

Back at the U of I, entering the second semester of 1945, he put on football togs once more.

His team became Bib Ten Champions, went to the Rose Bowl and thrashed UCLA 44-14. Western's new head coach was the leader in yards gained for the champion Illini—getting eight yards per try. He was named captain in 1947. On graduation in June, 1948, he came to WIU.

While in Macomb four children have been born to him and wife, Janice, the former Janice C. Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Evans of Burlington, Iowa. His oldest daughter, Carolyn, 12, was born while he was a star player for the Illini. His other children are James, 9, Diana, 5, Mary Jo, 3, and Debbie, 17 months.

Says the new head coach:

"I appreciate the opportunity to coach the football team at Western. The coaching staff will do everything in their power to uphold the standards of football at Western. We have a nucleus of a good ball team."

Coach Dufelmeier says he will have 30 men out for spring training next week. He would have others but a number of his key men are busy in track and baseball.

Dufelmeier himself is busy with intramural sports. "At least 80 per cent of the male students at WIU are in intramurals. We offer 16 sports—one for every man."

The mild - mannered six-foot coach is a strong believer in intramurals. He wants more publicity for the big intramural sports program for men and women at Western.

Coach Dufelmeier will select his own assistants in cooperation with the Dean of Education and the Director of Athletics. Line-coach Robert Miller and end-coach Joe Collier will join Saban in Boston.

Pirates Erupt For 10 Runs In 2nd Inning To Crush Reds, 12-7

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National League-leading Pittsburgh Pirates erupted for 10 runs in the second inning but still had to call on two relief pitchers to preserve a 12-7 victory Saturday over the Cincinnati Reds. It was Pittsburgh's eighth straight triumph.

Bill Mazeroski led the Pirate attack with a home run, a double and two singles. Mazeroski, Roberto Clemente and Dick Stuart each drove in three of the Pirate runs.

Clemente along with Cincinnati's Roy McMillan and Ed Bailey were other home run hitters. Although his mates staked him to a fat 10-1 lead in the first inning and a half, Bennie Daniels, the Pirates' starting pitcher, finally had to be lifted after five innings and Paul Giel and then Elroy Face finally staved off the Reds.

Six Cincinnati pitchers paraded to the mound with starter Cal McLish failing to last out the second inning.

In that wild second inning the Pirates had the home run by Clemente which scored three runs, two doubles and five singles. They also were helped along by McMillan's error which made the last eight runs unearned, two walks and a balk.

Yanks Interested In Sharing Park With NL Club

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees said Saturday they would be interested in sharing Yankee Stadium with a National League team on a permanent basis but ruled out any part-time occupancy.

The Yanks revealed they had been approached by an unidentified National League team during the winter about playing some National League games at the stadium. They said they were not interested. It was reported Cincinnati was the interested team.

"There are no definite negotiations at this time for moving a National League team to Yankee Stadium," said an unidentified Yankee official who was quoted by Bob Fishel, Yank publicity man, in Baltimore. "We were approached during the winter but the Yankees said they were not interested in part-time occupancy. The Yankees thought that would not be practical. However, we would listen to and discuss the possibility of a move to Yankee Stadium on a permanent basis."

The New York World-Telegram and Sun said Saturday that a National League team is trying to work out a deal to play some of its games at the stadium this summer. Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh were mentioned as possibilities.

Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager, said the Reds would play all of their 1960 games in Cincinnati. He made no other comment on the report.

A spokesman for the Phillies said "this is the first I've heard of such a suggestion, at least so far as we're concerned. And it doesn't sound right to me."

Joe Brown, Pittsburgh general manager, said there was no foundation to any report that the Pirates might play in the stadium.

In Cincinnati, Warren Giles, National League president, said no such idea of transferring games to New York ever had been suggested to him. He said it would require unanimous approval of all the clubs in the league and "no such approval ever has been asked."

Boston Rally Nips Senators

BOSTON (AP) — Boston rallied to beat Washington ace Camilio Pascual 2-1 Saturday on eighth inning singles by Vic Wertz and Bobby Thomson.

Pascual had allowed only three singles and struck out 10 when he wobbled in the eighth by walking Pete Runnels and Gene Stephens.

Wertz blooped a single into short center to spoil the shutout bid and tie the score. Then Thomson lined a hit to left for the winning margin.

Starter Tom Sturdivant, whose only slip in a four-hit, seven inning stint was a home run pitch to former Sox player Billy Consolo, combined with Mike Fornieles and Ted Bowsfield for the victory.

Though the Senators managed only four hits altogether, they got three walks from Fornieles in the ninth.

The 197-pounder was the Bears sixth draft choice. Last season Kovac scored 90 points. Of his 15 touchdowns, 9 were by rushing, 5 on pass receptions and 1 on a 54-yard intercepted pass return. He caught 31 passes for 332 yards and gained 515 yards rushing in 134 carries.

PROJECT UNDERWAY

NEW YORK (AP) — An ambitious project to make soccer a big time sport in the United States will get under way here May 25.

That's when the International Soccer League, composed of 10 European teams, one from Brazil and one foreign - studded New York squad, will start operation at the Polo Grounds and 10 in Roosevelt Stadium in Jersey City —through early August.

Although soccer is a major sport throughout the world, drawing regular crowds of 100,000 and as high as 200,000, it never has caught on in the United States. Interest in the sport, however, has been on the rise in the high school and college level in recent years.

Country's Finest 3-Year-Olds Seek Derby Title Saturday

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—About 15 of the country's finest 3-year-olds will battle it out next Saturday in the 86th running of America's most famous horse race—the Kentucky Derby. But three, Tompion, Bally Ache and Venetian Way, have dominated all pre-race calculations for the $125,000 added classic at ancient Churchill Downs.

Some dark horses may be lurking in the shadows, and it may take the Derby Trial Stakes at one mile here on Tuesday to put the big mile and one quarter race into better focus.

However, after Tompion's convincing victory in the $30,900 Blue Grass Stakes Thursday at Keeneland, he seems certain to be the favorite when the field surges from the starting gate at about 4:30 p.m., Central Daylight Time.

Tompion, son of Tom Fool, is owned by C. V. Whitney, socialite sportsman, and became the early favorite for America's glamor race after easily winning the Santa Anita Derby in March.

But he'll have to deal with Bally Ache, owned by Leonard Fruchtman of Toledo, Ohio. Bally Ache won Hialeah's Flamingo and the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park.

Venetian Way is the property of the Sunny Blue Farm of Isaac Blumberg, retired Chicago businessman. Venetian Way also can travel in fast company. He beat Bally Ache last August in the Washington Park Futurity in Chicago.

Of course, there's the always-present Calumet Farm threat. This time Hillsborough seems to have the best chance for Calumet. Trainer Jimmy Jones, who won in 1957 with Iron Liege and then with Tim Tam, also has Pied d'Or. Both Hillsborough and Pied d'Or are slated for final tuneups in the Derby Trial.

The Llangollen farm of Mrs. M. E. Lunn may shoot with the entry of Eagle Admiral and Divine Comedy. Adele L. Rand's Bourbon Prince, the Maine Chance Farm's Never Give In, the Valley Farm's Yomolka, S. I. Crew's Cuvier Relic, W. S. Miller's Stephen, S. H. Elmore's Henrijan, Marion van Berg's Spring Broker, Jack Dreyfus' Beau Purple and E. P. Taylor's Victoria Park from Canada are other candidates.

Blueboys Victorious In Home Triangular

Coach Bill Merris' Illinois College thinclads in their first home meet in two years emerged victorious in a triangular with Blackburn and Quincy on the JHS field Saturday afternoon. I.C., with 66½, had a comfortable margin over second place Blackburn's 53. Quincy trailed behind with 35½.

Despite the rains of Friday night and Saturday morning, the track was in good condition, but spectators and competitors alike shivered in the low temperature and brisk wind.

The Blue and White from the hilltop fielded a smaller squad than either of the visiting colleges. As a result, Merris depended upon individuals who could score in more than one event, and his boys came through. Green and Simpson finished 1-2 in the hundred and the furlong, while teammates Lovell and Orendorff picked up a third in the 100 and a fourth in the 220 respectively. Green's times of 10.1 in the century, and his 22.8 into the gale on the 220 were quite respectable.

Lovell continued on to take the honors in the low hurdles, a third in the broad jump, and to run a leg on the second-place mile relay team. Both Simpson and Orendorff also ran legs in the relay.

Ron Ladley was another I.C. stalwart in picking up a first in the discus, second in the shot, second in the broad jump, and a fourth in the low hurdles. Other I.C. firsts went to Ransom's 5'11" in the high jump and Wells' easy romp in the 880. Ransom also picked up a third in the high hurdles, while Wells gathered in a fourth in the two mile run.

Other point makers for the Merris squad were Culp with a third in the quarter, a second in the lows, and a leg on the mile relay team, Stowers with a third in the mile, Clements with a tie for second in the high jump, McPherson with a third in the discus, and Tilley with a fourth in the shot.

I.C.'s crack 880 relay team, which placed behind Loyola at the Bradley relays, and last week set a school record at the Rose Poly relays, did not get to run. The 880 relay is not a normal event in a college track and field meet, but is usually left to invitational relays.

Strength for Charlie Gray's Blackburn squad lay in the 440, the 2-mile, the javelin, and the shot, where the red and black placed two men in each event.

Firsts in the highs, the pole vault, and the mile were the major efforts contributed by John Ortwerth's visitors from Quincy.

Compliments go to host Bill Merris and his willing crew of I.C. students who kept events moving on schedule throughout the afternoon.

North And South Amateur Crown Won By Smith

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)— Charles Smith, riding a 4-up morning round cushion, staved off the afternoon challenge of erratic Peter Green and won the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament 5 and 3 Saturday.

The 6-foot, 210-pound Smith, a Gastonia, N.C., auto dealer, won his first major tournament by piling up a commanding lead on the back nine of the morning round. His 19-year-old rival from Franklin, Mich., a University of North Carolina sophomore, held Smith even through the first nine holes but fell behind after the 10th and never could catch up.

The spacious sand traps of the 7,007-yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club swallowed up the title hopes of Green. Twelve times he was trapped and he lost nine of the holes, including four of the par threes. Smith played out of the sand only twice, in the afternoon round.

Medal scores were 76 for Smith and 79 for Green in the first round, against par of 72. For the 33 holes played, Smith was 7 over par and Green 13 over.

Sam and Charley Gelso of Exeter, Pa., led doubles scoring with 1,267.

Crimsons 12th In Quincy Golf Meet

QUINCY — A driving rain and cold winds halted play at the end of nine holes in the annual Quincy High Invitational Golf Tourney here Saturday. Richwoods of Peoria garnered first place with 202 strokes before the meet was called off.

Joliet Catholic was second and the host Blue Devils third. Jacksonville placed 12th in the 24-team affair and the five-man Crimson total was 223.

Individual honors went to Jim Jameson of Moline who won in a five-hole playoff. Bob Moreland of Peoria Richwoods was second. Each player in the playoff had 38s.

Howard Curtis of JHS missed the playoff by a single stroke with a 39. Terry Gross was also close to the winners, carding a 40.

Maine Township 1st At Palatine

PALATINE, Ill. (AP) — Maine Township High School won its first title in the 28th annual Palatine Relays Saturday by scoring 62 points in Class-A Division competition.

Barrington finished first in Class-B competition with 35 points.

The track was slowed by early morning rains and the only record to come out of the meet was when Mike Creighton of McHenry went 6 feet 1⅛ inches in the high jump, bettering the previous high by ⅜ of an inch.

York was second to Maine with 46 points and Glenbard finished third with 43.

Second to Barrington was Grayslake with 28½. Naperville was third with 28½.

Weather Curtails Highlander Card

Saturday's rain played havoc with MacMurray spring sports with golf, tennis and baseball schedules being postponed. The Highlanders participated in a triangular meet at Elsah which was won by the host Principia Indians. Culver-Stockton was second.

Fred Douglas set a new school record in the shot put with a first place toss of 42'11½. In the 2-mile run Jim May had a second and Douglas also earned a fourth in the discus. Jerry Lace collected a second and a fourth in the pole vault and broad jump events. Rounding out Mac scoring was Doug Hatch's third in the high jump.

The tennis meet with Springfield Junior College was rescheduled for Tuesday. MacMurray's doubleheader at Carthage will be played Monday.

The golf date with Carthage and Augustana was set for a later date.

Ted Coil, Beardstown basketball mentor for the past six years, has resigned to accept an excellent offer as math and junior varsity coach at Yuma, Ariz., beginning next fall. Applicants interested in coaching basketball are to contact H. J. Haberaecker, Superintendent of Schools at Beardstown. According to Nick Carter, Beardstown Athletic Director, the position is wide open. Should be a good opening for someone with the brand new gymnasium and all.

The IHSA has assigned a baseball district to Routt High School and the regional playoff to Jacksonville High. Coach Bob Winstead has set May 9 and 11 as the district playoff which has only three teams entered. The host Rockets tangle with Jacksonville May 9 at Nichols Park starting at 4:00 p.m. The winner faces Triopia for the Championship at 4:00 o'clock Wednesday, May 11.

—O—

Coach Bob Kraushaar will run his regional tournament Monday and Tuesday with the finals Wednesday, May 16, 17 and 18. All games will be held on the JHS athletic field diamond with each afternoon starting time set for 4:00 p.m. The Pleasant Plains and Springfield runners will open the playoff Monday while Tuesday's card pits the Riverton winner against the Jacksonville Routt district winner. Kraushaar was hoping that the new addition of lights would be installed in time at Nichols Park so that the tourney could have been held here. It's just possible the Park would be ready by that date if there was a little more manpower to help in the minor repair roles. Kraushaar and Winstead are both looking forward to next season and plenty of games under the arcs at Nichols.

—O—

The most serious comment of the week was made by Coach George Danhaus of Bluffs as his nine was losing a daytime tilt, 21-1, to the Rockets this past week. "You know what's the matter with us, don't you? These lights are bothering my players. They must not be adjusted properly."

The Big Cars will open the 1960 racing season at the Morgan County Fairgrounds Sunday afternoon, May 8. This will be the first in several Big Car races at Jacksonville this year. Other dates are Monday, May 30; Sunday, Aug. 7, and Sunday, Sept. 18. All will be Big Cars except the May 30 date which will be a late model stock car race. The same large field of cars and drivers that were here last year are expected to return as entries have been received from several of the leading Big Car pilots, including Jerry Blundy of Galesburg, who finished second in the 1959 Big Car point standings. The seven-event program will consist of three-10 lap heat races, a special 5-lap race, 12 lap semifinal and 25-lap feature race all on the half-mile track. United Speedways sanctions the races. Time trials begin at 1:30 p.m.

Carol Heiss And Alan Jenkins Wed

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Heiss and Hayes Alan Jenkins, two of the world's greatest figure skaters, were married Saturday in St. Thomas Episcopal Church on Fifth Avenue.

About 400 persons looked on—an' outside others gathered on the sidewalk — as the blond, hazel-eyed winner of five world's skating championships was wed to Jenkins, who has four.

Miss Heiss, 20, wore a simply cut, white peau-de-soie dress with a short train and carried a small bouquet as she walked down the aisle with her father, Edward Heiss, an Ozone Park, N. Y., baker.

The bride's mother, who with her husband made many sacrifices to pay for Carol's costly training, died in 1957.

Illinois Splits With Indiana

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Indiana fought back after an 8-0 beating in the opener to edge Illinois, 5-4, in the seven-inning second game of a Big Ten doubleheader Saturday.

Four-hit pitching by southpaw Ernie Kumerow and an 11-hit attack by his Illini teammates spelled the difference in the first game, as three Hoosier hurlers went to the mound.

In the nightcap, Indiana's first four batters to face pitcher Terry Gellinger scored. Another run in the sixth inning gave Indiana the win, as Illinois scored a run in the seventh and had the tying and winning runs on base as the game ended.

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Helenio Herrera was suspended as manager of the Barcelona Soccer team Saturday just 24 hours after a mob manhandled him on the streets. The team lost to Real Madrid in the semifinal round of the European cup tourney.

Palmer Catches Collins, Fleck On Back Nine

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Arnold Palmer rallied on the back nine Saturday to catch Bill Collins and Jack Fleck for a three-way tie at the halfway mark of the $35,000 Houston Classic Golf Tournament.

The Masters champion was three strokes off the pace after the first 10 holes of the second round but came through with three birdies for a 66-71—137. Collins, the 1959 New Orleans Open winner, finished a few minutes later with an identical score.

Fleck, from Los Angeles, had posted his 68-69—137 two hours earlier.

Billy Maxwell Oceanside, Calif., moved onto the final green needing only a birdie to join the deadlock but three putted from 20 feet for a 67-72—139.

Palmer scrambled with four bogies and five birdies for his 37-34—71 on the 7,122-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course. Collins went out in 34 and came in with a 37.

Fleck started with an eagle 3 on the 558 yard, par 5 first hole and added two birdies against only one bogey for a 33-36.

A heavy rain washed out Friday's play after about half the field of 139 had finished the 18 holes.

Grouped at 140 were Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C., Freddie Haas, New Orleans, and Doug Ford, Crystal River, Fla.

Yankees Take Over 1st Place With 16-0 Romp Over Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—The New York Yankees boomed into undisputed possession of first place in the American League Saturday with a long range hitting outburst that smothered the Baltimore Orioles 16-0 and allowed pitcher Jim Coates to post his third victory without defeat.

Although he had a five-run lead before going to the mound as Roger Maris and Bill Skowron smacked back-to-back homers in the first inning, the lanky righthanded Coates bore down all the way.

The Orioles scraped eight singles off him, three by Al Pilarcik, but could push only one runner to third and another to second as their five-game winning streak ended. The victory ended New York's three-game losing streak.

Coates fanned three and walked the same number as the Yankees for the second time this week gave him a fat lead against the Orioles. Last Sunday, they scored eight runs in the first inning for him.

Leon Wagner's Homer Carries Cardinals To 5-4 Win Over Chicago

ST. LOUIS (AP) —Leon Wagner provided the punch with two home runs and Lindy McDaniel produced another scoreless relief job for the streaking St. Louis Cardinals Saturday in a 5-4 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

The Redbirds made it seven out of eight in their home stand, moving over .500 for the first time in two seasons at 7-6.

Wagner, the muscular left fielder obtained from San Francisco in a trade for Don Blasingame, hammered two solo home runs and a run-scoring single, lifting his average to .342.

Ernie Banks again was the big man for the last-place Cubs. His two-run single headed a three-run fifth inning which drove out Card starter Wilmer Mizell and gave the Cubs a temporary 4-2 lead.

Two New Clubs Make Debut In Midwest Sunday

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Two new members, Quincy, (Ill.) and Quad-City, make their start Sunday in the Class D Midwest League.

The two former Three I League clubs have replaced Michigan City, Ind., and Paris, Ill.

Defending Midwest champion Waterloo, Iowa, was to play at Dubuque, Iowa, in the league opener tonight.

All teams are in action Sunday with this schedule of afternoon games and major league affiliations:

Keokuk and Quincy will play again Sunday night at Keokuk.

The two new clubs are expected to boost the league's over-all attendance. Last year the circuit drew 468,837 fans.

Newcomers are Al Federoff at Decatur, Jim Adlaim at Dubuque, Al Ronning at Kokomo, Travis Jackson at Quad-City and Sam Calderone at Quincy.

Loss of Paris takes the oldest member from the league. The Lakers had been in the loop 10 years. Michigan City had participated four years. Decatur is starting its ninth season.

Rookies dominate most of the teams. Each has a sprinkling of limited service players. Veterans seldom are used.

Waterloo beat out Clinton in both halves of the split 1959 title races. This season again will be divided.

C. C. (Dutch) Hoffman of Belleville, Ill., former major league infielder, is league president.

Also to be awarded are three travelling scholarships of $1,500 each to journalism school students who will be graduated in June, and a $1,500 art scholarship.

Held's Homer Gives Indians 2-1 Decision

CLEVELAND (AP)—Woodie Held hit a two-run homer in the eighth, pushing the Cleveland Indians to a 2-1 triumph Saturday over Kansas City.

It was Held's fifth homer of the season and his fifth against the A's. He hit a pair in Kansas City last Sunday and two more Friday night.

The Indians were blanked by southpaw Bud Daley until Held connected, after Harvey Kuenn walked. The slugging shortstop, who singled earlier, made two of the five hits off Daley.

The A's only run was a homer by Bill Tuttle, leading off in the first inning. He hit the second pitch served by Barry Latman, who then walked the next three batters.

The victory went to Johnny Briggs, who faced only six men in the last two rounds.

Sword Dancer Returns With Gray Lag Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Sword Dancer returned to the scene of his greatest triumph Saturday and showed the form that earned him the 1959 horse of the year honors by winning the $70,000 Grey Lag Handicap in a blanket three - horse finish at Aqueduct.

With Eddie Arcaro giving a masterful ride, Sword Dancer came outside of three horses at the head of the stretch and just managed to hold off First Landing by a neck at the wire.

Third was W. A. Hanger's Whitley. He was beaten only by a nose for second money. It was two more lengths back to Talent Show.

Sword Dancer, who carried top weight of 126 pounds, is owned by the Brookmeade Stable of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane. First Landing, owned by C. T. Chenery, carried 124. Whitley had 116, three less than Talent Show.

Sword Dancer's time for the 1¼ miles on a fast track was 1:45 3-5, he paid $7.30, $4.20 and $3.70. First Landing, the 8-5 favorite, returned $3 and $2.60. Whitley, who started at 23-1, paid $7.50.

Back of the first four horses came in order, Manassa Mauler, Polyad, Crasher, King O'Turf, Amber Morn, Nimmer and Restless Wind.

De Gaulle Gets Warm Welcome In French Guinea

CAYENNE, French Guiana (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle, fresh from his triumphal tour of the United States and Canada, arrived Saturday to a welcome as warm as the tropical temperatures of this French territory on the northeast coast of South America.

De Gaulles' plane landed in a pouring rain from New Orleans, last stop on his U.S. tour. But the rain let up as his motorcade headed down a highway bordered by mangroves and palms to Cayenne, a city of 15,000.

Crowds lined the 10-mile route, cheering and waving. The President stood up in his car and returned the waves.

At the city square, De Gaulle got out of his car and walked through the crowds, grasping outstretched hands and kissing little girls.

Four Airliners Delayed By Bomb Threats On Phone

CHICAGO (AP)—North Central Airlines reported Saturday that four evening flights from Midway Airport were delayed because of bomb threats made in two anonymous phone calls.

Joseph Leal, night operations supervisor for North Central, said the four flights, regularly scheduled to depart between 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. were held up for thorough inspection of the planes and their baggage. One delayed flight was to Detroit, the others to Wisconsin points and destinations in Minnesota and Upper Michigan.

Leal said both calls were received at North Central's ticket office in the Loop and both callers had women's voices. He said one caller said only, "Watch out for bombs this evening." He said the other caller warned of a passenger "with a bomb in his pocket."

The minutes of the last meeting were read, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Clarence Schewe. Mite box money was collected.

The program opened with two vocal selections by Rhoda Schirmer, accompanied by Mrs. R. H. Davidsmeyer. Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. James Hawley, wife of the Rev. James Hawley of Neelyville, a graduate of Valparaiso with a degree in Deaconess work.

Mrs. Hawley gave an interesting program on the work of a Deaconess. The meeting closed with a prayer by Rhoda Schirmer. Refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed table by Mrs. Davidsmeyer and Mrs. Helen Rose.

Find Debris In Lake But No Sign Of 6 RCAF Men

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The Coast Guard believed Saturday that it had located the spot in Lake Michigan a few miles east of the Milwaukee harbor where a Royal Canadian Air Force plane crashed Friday night. No bodies have been recovered but debris has been found.

Six men, all RCAF personnel were aboard the World War II B25 Mitchell bomber when it crashed attempting to make an emergency landing at Gen. Billy Mitchell Airfield with a runaway propellor. Apparently none survived.

A widespread search in the fog and rain by vessels of the Coast Guard, Army, Navy, Milwaukee Fire Department and private owners was halted temporarily Saturday when a wind shift made the lake rough.

Marked by a buoy was a spot approximately three miles east of the harbor entrance where oil bubbling to the surface indicated the twin-engine plane may have crashed and exploded.

Among the dead in the crash was Air Commodore J. G. Stephenson of Windsor, Ont., who was en route from Ottawa, Canada, to Truax Air Force Base, Madison, Wis., to inspect the North American Defense Command.

DIDN'T HURT AT ALL

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—A strained little finger was all William J. Reilly suffered in four automobile accidents, any one of which he said could have been fatal.

Once his car rolled over several times and was a total loss. On another occasion he crawled out of a wrecked and burning car. A third time two companions were injured seriously when a car landed in a ditch. And a companion was injured in a head-on collision.

The four accidents occurred in a span of 12 years, two only 10 months apart.

"I'm very careful now," says Reilly, who has a wife and six children.

Boston was named after a town in Lincolnshire, England.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Jerry McBride is the basketball coach at Metamora high school and he is a graduate of Monmouth high school and Monmouth College. He succeeds George Girardi who recently resigned. McBride is now coaching at Joy high school where he is head football, basketball and track coach. He received honorable mention on the Midwest Conference football team in 1957 and he was named on the conference basketball second team in 1957 and to the first team the following year.

Dolph Stanley is the athletic director and head basketball coach at Auburn high in Rockford. He formerly coached at Taylorville and is a graduate of the University of Illinois. His 1944 Taylorville five won the state title in being the first undefeated team to take home the first place trophy. That year Canton high led the Tornadoes at the halftime intermission and Coach Larson's lads were the only team to lead the Taylorville team that season at halftime.

Three no-hitters were turned in last week in the prep ranks with Ron Patterson of Farmington beating Valley of Fairview while Barry Diest of Staunton turned back Gillespie and Hubie Gonet hurled Nokomis to a no-hitter against the Carlinville high Cavaliers in a South Central game. Havana showed two Frosh hurlers that turned in wins over Easton and Balyki of Bath as Mike Conlin and Jon Stelter gave up two hits and four hits respectively.

Canton high's varsity mile relay team smashed the Monmouth high relays record in that event Thursday to lead the Little Giants to a third place finish. The squad ripped off the four laps in 3:39.7 to beat the old mark of 3:41.8 set last year by host Monmouth's Zippers. Canton's frosh 440 squad also smashed a record but was eliminated because one runner left his lane. Coach Fred Radunzel moved Larry Wolfe, district 440 defending champ, from his usual anchor spot to the first leg in the mile relay and he gave Canton a big lead going into the second quarter mile. Don St. Clair, Dave Smith and Chuck Gibbs held onto the margin for the win.

Peoria Woodruff halted Canton's six-game winning baseball streak as the Little Giants of Coach Joe Adam suffered an 8-4 loss at Peoria. Canton remained close during most of the contest, pulling to within a single run three times before Woodruff opened the gap for good with three runs in the sixth inning. Canton plays Galesburg high in a double header attraction at Canton's Athletic Park Saturday with the first game at 1 o'clock.

Coach Don Talbot of DePue high wants basketball games for his Little Giants. Two home games are wanted during the 1960-61 season and the enrollment is 125 students. Rickie Fox of Rockbridge high and a junior is the leading candidate for the broad jump event at the state meet in Champaign next month with a fine 22-7 performance. Gary Wolff of Centralia is the top performer in the pole vault at 12-10 and Al Carius of Morton high near Peoria has the best mile this year with a fine 4:25.4 turned in last week during the Illion conference meet.

Dean Renn has resigned as football coach at Metropolis high and he wants to land a job in the northern part of the state in September. Jim Kettlekamp is the new basketball coach at Pana high and he is stepping from the frosh-soph job as his team posted a 14-2 record during the 1959-60 campaign. Sam Milosevich has resigned as basketball coach at Unity high of Tolono after serving six years. He is a graduate of Zeigler high school.

Pekin radio station WSIV, which has been broadcasting Pekin high baseball games, will sponsor a "Baseball Appreciation" day at Mineral Springs Park Tuesday when the unbeaten Peoria Manual Rams meet the Pegin high Chinks. Pekin Mayor Norman Shade will throw the first pitch and police chief George Seal will be the catcher.

Peoria Richwoods remained unbeaten in dual meet competition while Peoria Spalding handed Peoria Central its first setback of the season. Woodruff beat East Peoria and Gary Garnett won three events for the winner while Peoria Limestone beat Pekin in the other dual meet 68 to 50.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A bout between two American welterweight contenders—Rudell Stitch and Ralph Dupas—is expected to draw a capacity crowd of 12,000 in Sydney Stadium Monday night.

Promoter Harry Miller said a sellout would gross 16,000 Australian pounds ($35,840). This would mean purses of $8,900 for each of the fighters on their 25 per cent cuts.

PLAN SOME ATTRACTION

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Minor league baseball, which showed a modest gain at the gate last year, will stage another National Attendance Derby for all clubs this season.

The team, in any classification, which shows the greatest percentage increase over 1959 will take the sweepstakes trophy to be presented at the annual convention in Louisville, Ky., in December. Other trophies will be presented the leader in each classification.

ADVERTISE — IT PAYS!

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Four meet records, including a 63-foot, 11½ inch shotput by Bill Nieder in a grudge match, were fashioned Saturday in the 51st Drake Relays.

Nieder vanquished Olympic champion and world record-holding Parry O'Brien in an AAU shot event which grabbed the spotlight before 14,000 fans, who shivered in windy, 45-degree temperature in Drake Stadium. However, the winning toss was nearly a foot and a half under Nieder's 65-7 heave in the Texas Relays earlier this spring. Dallas Long, who also has exceeded O'Brien's listed mark, wasn't participating in the duel here.

Nieder, former Kansan now an Army lieutenant, topped O'Brien by over 10 inches in a three-man showdown previewing the United States' prospects in the Olympic shotput at Rome this summer.

O'Brien's best was 63-1¼ on his first of six turns, a shade under his listed world mark of 63-4. Another shotput giant, Dave Davis, 260-pound Californian, finished third with 61-9¼.

The other meet records came in the pole vault with a 15 foot, ½ inch leap by J. D. Martin of Oklahoma; a 3:12.2 clocking by Central Michigan in the college mile relay; and the first Drake running of the 5,000 meter event, won by former Minnesota star Buddy Edelen in 14:35.7.

Kansas and Illinois each won two relays events, while East Texas State of Commerce, Tex., copped three baton titles in the college division.

However, Kansas also came up with a repeating champion in the Javelin as Bill Alley won with 238-5.

The Drake mark in the special AAU shot put event was 59-9¾, set by O'Brien in 1954.

O'Brien, who holds the current world mark of 63-4, had been called the "Los Angeles Dodger" by Nieder prior to this grudge meeting. O'Brien had charged that Nieder couldn't win the big meets.

Nieder, who had two scratches in his six turns, also had tosses of 62-8½; 63-10; and 63-8. O'Brien, after his opening 63-1¼, tossed 61-6½; 60-7; 61-11; 61-6½; and scratched his final turn.

A special AAU 440 dash was won by Glen Davis, former Ohio State star and the world's quarter-mile record holder, in 47.4. Davis won by four yards over Texan Eddie Southern, 1959 NCAA champion, but his time was well behind his own Drake mark of 46.5 and his world mark of 45.7.

Oklahoma's Mike Lindsay retained his shotput title in the university division with 56-10½, eight inches behind his 1959 Drake record.

Minnesota's Dave Odegard won a 13.9 victory in the 120 high hurdles, just one-tenth of a second slower than the Drake mark.

Illinois captured the university distance medley in 5:59.5, almost 10 seconds behind the meet record.

The 100-yard dash produced a hot battle between Kansas' Charlie Tidwell, 1959 NCAA champion, and Baylor's Ray Knaub. The race was won by Tidwell in 9.5, a tenth of a second over the Drake mark.

The defending high jump champion, W. L. Thornton of Texas Tech, was unseated by Charles Lewis of Grambling (La.) College with a so-so winning effort of 6-5½.

East Texas State won its second relay of the meet and matched its own Drake record in the college quartermile relay in 41.1. East Texas State also captured the college half-mile relay with 1:25.9 and Friday won the college sprint medley in 3:23.7.

WINDY STORY

EL RENO, Okla. (AP) — The wind does blow hard in parts of the Oklahoma flatlands. Truck driver Ernest Leach said he was towing a house trailer with a truck when a sudder gust turned over the vehicles.

SHORT CELEBRATION

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—A full day in court left Acting County Judge Phillip J. Weiss of Batavia about 40 minutes to celebrate his 51st birthday.

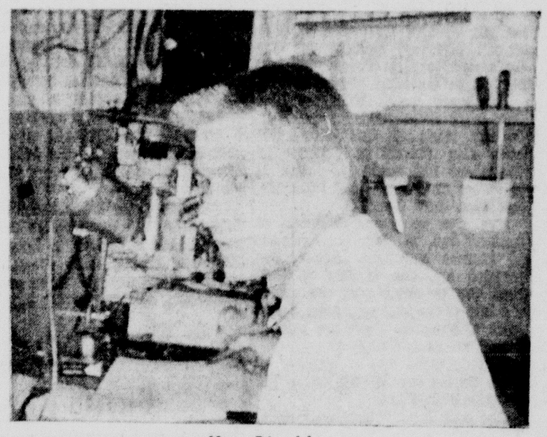

He was busy all day with summations of counsel in a manslaughter trial, charged the jury, then had to wait until 11:20 p.m. to hear the jury's verdict.

BUZZARD HHAZARD

PALMYRA, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Carl Smith, 60, suffered a deep cut on her forehead when a buzzard crashed into and shattered the windshield of a car driven by her husband. The husband, uninjured, kept control of the car. The buzzard was decapitated.

To Operate Aid Station

Ken Rinaldo

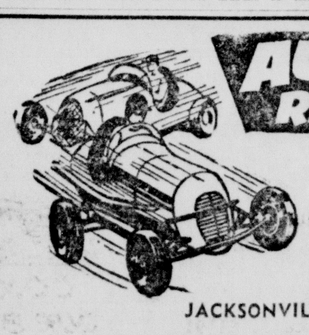

NEW BERLIN — Ken Rinaldo has done something about his belief that there should be Citizen Aid Stations in small communities. Ken has established shortwave radio stations in his home and a mobile unit, and will be "on duty" for any emergency such as tornado, fire, etc. In case of high line failure, both units will be battery operated. Ken states that he will gladly go to any fire, when notified, in his mobile unit to establish direct communication to his home unit and in case of telephone failure, additional aid when needed could be dispatched more quickly.

Ken's call number is 18W4308—New Berlin, using channels 8 and 15. He has emergency contact with Springfield Citizen Band Stations which has 23 channels on the 11 meter band. He also has regular contact with 18W2363—Pleasant Plains and 18A4249—Ashland.

Ken is a graduate of the Valparaiso Technical Institute and served the Signal Corps in the radio section during the Korean conflict, in Korea. He is married and the father of two children and resides in New Berlin where he has operated his own TV-Radio Sales and Service business since April of 1958. He also services the Citizen Band transceivers.

His brother Paul is also interested in radio-mechanics and is in State Department Service as radio circuit planner at U.S. London Embassy.

The New Berlin community has experienced many telephone and powerline "blackouts" due to tornadoes, ice storms, accidents, etc., and this shortwave radio setup is a very welcome and much needed addition to the entire community.

CHANGING TIMES

Thomas Smashes World High Jump Record With A Leap Of 7' 1½"

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Thomas, the towering Boston University sophomore, soared through the gloom and mist of Franklin Field Saturday to a world high jump record—7 feet, 1½ inches—in the Penn Relays.

A record crowd of 42,138 saw Thomas go over on his first try. There was daylight between his graceful body and the crossbar.

Thus the questionable world record of 7-1 set in 1957 by Russia's Yuri Stepanov was toppled. Stepanov made his record with the aid of shoes with raised soles. His mark was accepted, but the shoe later was banned.

Other highlights of the gigantic carnival:

1. Ray Norton, formerly of San Jose State, equaled the world record of the 220-yard dash around a turn with a clocking of 20.6.

2. Michigan, which came with high hopes of becoming the third team in the history of the relays to win four events, had to settle for two.

3. Yale, which hadn't won a major test since 1942, came out with two victories.

But in the end it was Thomas who stole the show. The 19-year-old youngster already had cleared 7-2½ indoors, but the International Amateur Athletic Federation recognizes only outdoor records.

This was only his second outdoor competition as a collegian. Last week, he equaled Charlie Dumas' American outdoor record of 7-½, which has been on the books since the 1956 Olympic tryouts.

Thomas tried for 7-2½ three times but missed.

Michigan won the distance medley, but won just one more of the remaining seven top relays. The final tally sheet showed Michigan with two, San Jose State with two, Yale with two and Villanova and Winston-Salem (NC) Teachers with one each.

San Jose State grabbed the quarter-mile in 41 seconds.

San Jose also outlegged Don Canham's Wolverines in the half-mile, which they covered in 1:24.5, equaling the meet record.

Yale finished way out front in the two-mile in 7:27.4.

Villanova won the mile in 3:12.2, and Winston Salem captured the shuttle hurdles in 59.3 seconds for the third year in a row.

'Operation Friendship' Opens Mental Health Week Program Today

Visitors will be welcomed from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at Jacksonville State Hospital as the 12th annual open house, designated as "Operation Friendship," gets underway. The public invitation is part of a nation-wide observance of Mental Health Week, May 1-7.

Governor William G. Stratton and Mayor Robert A. DuBois have issued proclamations calling attention to Mental Health Week.

Expect Large Crowd

Hundreds of friends from the 22 county area served by the state institution are expected to attend during open house today. Visitors will have an opportunity to see some of the latest equipment used in treating mental problems and visit the various wards.

Refreshments will be served during the tour.

Easy Parking

Open house visitors will enter the hospital grounds by auto at the north gate on South Diamond and the south gate on South Main. Pedestrians may enter at any gate.

Autos will be directed to two large parking areas where visitors will be asked to leave their cars while making the tour. In case a visitor should wish to move his car from one end of the grounds to the other, the hospital has asked that he move off the grounds and re-enter by the other gate.

Driving restrictions have been established to avoid confusion in traffic and for the welfare of patients who will be moving about the hospital grounds.

Registration booths will be set up by the Volunteer Services Department close to the parking lots. Visitors will receive a program, map of the grounds and a special tag to admit them to various hospital areas.

Children Welcome

Children are welcome on the tour but as an added service to visitors, a play area will be located in front of the Administration building and supervised by the Psychiatric Affiliated student nurses.

The supervised play area is designed for children whose parents may wish to leave them in competent hands as they continue their hospital visits.

Two films will be shown in the staff room of the Old Diagnostic building during the hours of the tour. Competent personnel will be present at the showing to answer any questions which may arise.

Various booths will be set up in the hospital's gymnasium where visitors may learn more about services rendered to the patients and the operation of the institution.

Church Services

Since open house falls on Sunday, visitors are invited to attend either of the worship services held in the gymnasium for patients. Roman Catholic services are conducted by a priest from the local church at 8 a.m. and Protestant services at 9:15 a.m. will be conducted by Rev. Darwin Clupper, hospital chaplain.

Music at both services will be provided by the hospital choir, under the direction of Mrs. Alta Eisch, music therapist.

A large segment of the hospital's more than 900 employees will be on duty to explain details or answer questions throughout the day. Each employee will wear special arm bands.

Siren's Pitch Will Be Lowered Tuesday For Operation Alert

Jacksonville's new Civil Defense siren will have a lower voice when it is sounded next Tuesday as part of Operation Alert 60, the seventh annual Civil Defense exercise. Civil Defense Director Dr. Vincent Lenth said yesterday that lowering the tone should make it easier to hear in the remote sections of the city.

The alert signal, a steady 3-minute blast, will be sounded immediately prior to the beginning of the CONELRAD drill at one o'clock. As the exercise continues, the take-cover signal, a wailing three-minute tone will be sounded. When local Civil Defense officials complete the exercise, the all-clear signal of intermittent steady blasts will be heard.

Bonham Group, CWF, Meets At Garlich Home

The Bonham Group CWF of Central Christian Church, met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ed Garlich, 1512 Mound. There were 14 members present.

Mrs. LeeRoy Fairchild, leader, opened the meeting. Miss Verna Butcher had charge of devotions. Mrs. Emma Wilding gave the study lesson on Africa, telling of the missionary work in the Belgium Congo.

After the program Mrs. Fairchild conducted a short business meeting.

Club Luncheon Decor Salutes New States

The spring luncheon of the Morgan County Garden Club was held in First Baptist church social rooms, Saturday, April 23rd.

The president, Mrs. Royal T. Hopper, welcomed all and called upon Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Schofield for the invocation.

After a delightful luncheon Mrs. Chester Colton opened the program by leading the members in the pledge to the flag.

Miss Charlotte Sieber, music chairman, introduced Mrs. John Gillespie, and Carmen Potter, who delighted the audience with vocal solos and duet numbers, "Wanting You," "Will You Remember," "If I Could Tell You," Romberg, and "Love Everlasting," Friml. After this enjoyable session the audience was still not satisfied and Mrs. Gillespie and Mr. Potter graciously responded with an encore. Their able accompanist was Mrs G. O. Webster.

Mrs. George Taylor gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Joy Goin the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Eugene Dodsworth, program chairman, presented and introduced Mrs. Claude Jewsbury, who spoke on "Salute to Alaska." She gave an interesting and colorful sketch on her trip to the southeastern part of that state. The trip, made by boat, was known as the "Inside Passage."

The use of colored slides gave emphasis to the descriptions of beautiful flower gardens, residents in native dress and topography of the country.

Hawaiian Decorations

Most pleasing to the eyes were the table decorations, which followed the theme of the joint program expressed in colorful handmade hula girls under palm trees, reed baskets and boats, filled with corsages, garden flowers, and pineapples as the salute to Hawaii.

Much credit is due the decorating committee for untiring efforts. Decorations were made and arranged by Mrs. Frank Crawley, Mrs. Wyman Sooy, Mrs. Dwight Green, Mrs. Roy Baker, Mrs. Len Magill.

Mrs. Ira Story, Mrs. Henry Frisch, Mrs. Clifford Hill, Mrs. Ogle Love, Mrs. Vernon Schofield, Mrs. Royal T. Hopper, Miss Ruby Mann and Miss Rose Ranson.

Special credit was given to Mrs. Eugene Dodsworth, for her work in making the baskets, boats and corsages.

This meeting combined the business of the annual election of certain officers as well as the luncheon.

Miss Gladys Howard, chairman, Mrs. Robert Hembrough and Mrs. Claude Jewsbury, members of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers, who were unanimously elected.

Mrs. Harry Crabtree, vice president; Mrs. Ogle Love, assistant secretary; Mrs. Charles Adams, treasurer (one year) and Mrs. Louis Foster, assistant treasurer. Other officers for the club are elected on alternate years.

Much credit is due the luncheon committee for fine arrangements, Mrs. Albert Potter, chairman, Mrs. Harry Killam, co-chairman, Mrs. Oliver Cromwell, Mrs. Robert Hembrough, Mrs. Chester Colton.

Seated at the speaker's table, in addition to those previously mentioned, were Mrs. Rex Ranson, former officer, and Mrs. Merl Kerns, who assisted with tickets.

Mrs. Hopper thanked all committees and called upon the members of the Couples Class, First Baptist church, Mrs. W. S. Dobbs chairman, and men serving as waiters, to put in an appearance. Members gave a hearty applause in appreciation.

Thanks went also to loyal members of the club, to Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Goin, Mrs. Kerns, and Mrs. Dan Ward for tickets.

Announcement was made the Garden Club of Springfield will have its Spring Show at the Illinois Building at the State Fair Grounds, Springfield, on April 29th and 30th and May 1st, and had invited the Jacksonville Club to decorate a mantle, which will be under the supervision of Mrs. Eugene Dodsworth.

All were reminded to be present at the May meeting for an interesting program and the installation of officers. The group was invited to purchase any of the decorations.

De Gaulle And The Summit

That President Charles de Gaulle of France views with some hope the summit conference starting in Paris in less than three weeks is surely significant.

For De Gaulle is neither the unyielding ramrod he once was pictured, nor the soft negotiator who would give away part of our shirts to get an agreement with the Soviet Union.

He is a tough but flexible bargainer, imaginative, forceful, positive-minded in the sense that he searches constantly for solutions. He does not dwell unduly on roadblocks and other negative factors.

Recently he has personally tested the mind of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Having sampled it, and knowing his own mind, he still sees real hope at the summit.

Not, he makes clear, that we shall there gain final solutions on disarmament or Berlin or anything else. Indeed, he appeared in Washington to suggest that Berlin, the original cause of summit talk, may be shoved into the background and allowed to drift along unsettled.

What De Gaulle expects is that, most probably in the disarmament field, there will be at least the beginnings of progress, the creation of a new international atmosphere in which genuine solutions are actually possible, if not immediately attainable. Up to now such solutions have seemed terribly remote.

Obviously, to accomplish even this much the summit negotiators must get beyond the stage of mere diplomatic niceties and onto some sort of solid ground. The raw materials of agreement must be laid on the table, whether or not they are to be quickly assembled into a final product.

Not every Western leader agrees with De Gaulle that this prospect is likely at the May 16 meeting. But Vice President Nixon, who himself has had some exposure to Khrushchev's mind, is one who does. And he too has a quality of toughness which does not bend easily to wishful thinking.

Neither the totally rigid nor the pliably soft negotiators have had much success in dealing with Khrushchev. With De Gaulle at the table this time, we may have the first real test of what can be achieved through a blend of firmness and flexibility.

The world will watch this test with more than ordinary interest. The confrontation will be both fateful and fascinating.

The Face Is Familiar, but the Name Is Strange; At Column's End, a Historical 'Footnote'

BY JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Autograph hunters who are out to bag Vice President Richard Nixon are dumbfounded when their quarry writes, "Petr Yakovlevich Ezhov —U.S.S.R."

Ezhov, Third Secretary of the Soviet Embassy, is a dead ringer for Nixon and is often mistaken for him at cocktail parties.

HIGH LIGHT of Vice President Nixon's dinner for French President Charles de Gaulle at the Mayflower Hotel was a dessert called bombourbalou. It's a mold of vanilla and anisette flavored ice cream. Anisette is a drink that tastes like licorice.

THE FIRST baby elephant fired into outer space is likely to be the one used in a Dow Chemical Co. product show here. The animal does a hula dance to band music.

On opening night, however, the elephant was overanxious and went into its routine while the guest of honor was delivering his speech. The man from whom it stole the show was Dr. T. Keith Glennan, director of the federal space agency.

SOPHIE TUCKER, "The Last of the Red Hot Mamas," dropped into a Shoreham Hotel party and cracked that she was going to give up singing and run for president. She declared:

"My campaign slogan is going to be, 'Everyone for the party and a party for everyone!'"

A VISIT from the census taker reminds Sen. Norris Cotton (R-N.H.) of a story about one of the first official nose counts in New Hampshire's Grafton County. The census taker was religious minded and evidently had a grudge against lawyers. He wrote:

"We have 25 incorporated towns, 14 grist mills, 5 saddler shops, 7 millwrights, 8 physicians, 17 clergymen and not a single lawyer. For this happy state of affairs, we take no credit unto ourselves but render all the glory to God."

A WASHINGTON traveler, just back from the Soviet Union, feels like a character in an international intrigue novel. After returning to the U.S., she opened a box of matches that had been given to her by a Russian peasant and found a note inside. It read:

"Dear American, Come and visit us more often. When you arrived, there suddenly appeared sausages and various other articles. Probably after your departure, everything will again disappear."

The note continued with a complaint about a Russian bureaucrat who was taking bribes and cheating the townspeople. It ended by urging the woman to broadcast the message in the U.S. and "help the inhabitants rid themselves of the dog."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They're off and shooting in the sixth season of the apparently unbeatable "Gunsmoke" series.

Dodge City has moved from California Studios to the Paramount television lot, but otherwise there seems to be no change in the setup for the Saturday night show. Dodge is still as dusty, Matt Dillon as trusty, Chester as gimpy and Doc as grumpy. Not to mention Kitty, who is still Amanda Blake.

"No, we're not planning any changes this season," said big Jim Arness as he rested between gunplay. "We've gone along pretty well the way we are, so why tamper with it?"

Jim seemed unruffled about facing another eight months of intensive film making to complete another season.

"Sure, it's hard work sometimes," he said, "but the rewards are pretty great, too. There's a lot of independence involved. I like that; it's one of the reasons the acting life appealed to me.

"How long can 'Gunsmoke' last? I wish it could go on indefinitely. Realistically, I would imagine it could last another two or three years; that's what people connected with the business tell me. I guess eight years would be about the limit for a successful show. Then I would hope that I could get another series."

Jim's satisfaction with his lot is unusual in the TV corral. It is also something new with him. He was fixing to get out of the Dillon role, but last season the producers made him a new deal for a better share of the returns. Now he can afford a new ranch and yacht to take care of what little spare time he has on land or sea.

Old Folks' Care Is Noble But Don't Ruin Your Life

BY MARIE DAERR

"If you aren't careful, your father will be ruling the household from his bed."

Dr. J, who was treating a 70-year-old stroke victim, gave this warning to Helen and Mary, the patient's middle-aged, unmarried daughters. Both women had good office jobs.

"In many ways, your father is like a child now," the doctor said. "Unless you remain in control, you will suffer—and you won't help him."

Wisely, the two women took Dr. J's advice. Kindly but firmly they said "no" when father asked that the housekeeper they had engaged be fired and that one daughter stay home with him.

"It wasn't easy," Helen told me. "We had many changes in housekeepers. It took real hustling to find new ones, when necessary.

"But we realized it was the best solution. We knew that, if one of us stayed home, she would be giving up much more than her job. This way we kept part of our old way of living."

Many a doctor has seen an aged invalid turn the middle-aged daughter who cares for him into a nervous wreck. Frances was a victim of her own mother, who was bedridden for 15 years.

For several years Frances, who worked for an attorney, tried housekeepers. Mother's complaints finally drove her to give up her job.

Caring for Frances' mother involved doing huge laundries daily, fixing a special diet. Frances did all this—cheerfully. She also did a little office work at home, though there wasn't much time for that.

Somehow, after Frances' mother died, she had no desire to go back to an office. She had got into such a rut, she decided to continue staying at home, doing what typing jobs she could get.

She seldom goes out these days. The few friends she still sees say, sadly, that Frances is well on the way to becoming a recluse.

Sometimes, even when daughter keeps her job, and mother is in a nursing home, the younger woman's devotion goes to extremes. This was the case with Margaret.

After old Mrs. R broke her hip, Margaret, a saleswoman in a retail store, arranged to have her mother cared for in a fine nursing home. A philanthropic organization helped her pay the bills.

But Mrs. R, who had always "run" her family, didn't think she got enough attention. Each night, after she finished her job, Margaret ate a quick cafeteria dinner and then went to the home. There she got her mother ready for bed.

Sundays' Margaret spent most of the day there. As with Frances, friends dropped away, simply because Margaret was never free to do anything with them.

Since Mrs. R's death, Margaret is trying to build a new life. She feels lost, she admits. . . .

"I don t seem to have anything to do."

How far should a child's devotion go?

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon will try to run as an individual—selling himself—if he gets the Republican party's presidential nomination.

That's how acquaintances say his thinking goes. It is not a position he has taken publicly. And it might indicate he is not going to depend too much on the record of the Eisenhower administration to win for him.

He wouldn't be the first who tried it that way. Nelson A. Rockefeller won the governorship of New York in 1958. He didn't tie himself in too tightly to the Eisenhower administration.

Nixon has plenty of critics. But none has ever called him a political chump. So possibly he hasn't confided all his thinking to acquaintances or is only telling them what he is willing to have them say he thinks, or wants them to say.

But this what they say he has in mind:

By his own calculations he cannot win on the Republican vote alone because there are not enough Republicans. He figures about 40 per cent of the voters are pretty solidly Republican, about 45 per cent pretty solidly Democratic.

So he has to dip into that remaining 15 per cent—which would include independents and Democrats and Republicans who sometimes switch—for his margin of victory, providing he can keep the regular Republicans with him.

He hopes to keep Republican support by campaigning as a conservative—a stand he thinks will also appeal to Democrats if there is still prosperity at election time next November.

Nixon thinks Thomas E. Dewey, former New York governor, ruined himself in the 1948 presidential campaign by taking the Republican vote so much for granted that he didn't even bother talking to them.

But the vice president attaches a lot of importance to the condition of the economy next November. If there is a downturn by then, he doesn't think the Republicans have a chance.

He's banking on continued prosperity and the idea that if the voters feel they're doing pretty well they won't have much interest in Democratic promises that cost a lot of money.

Nixon believes the Democrats will be so liberal in their platform promises—with various kinds of programs — that by presenting himself as a conservative he can win in this way:

He'll figure out how much the Democratic promises will cost—if they won and tried to make good on them—and tell the voters what the total Democratic bill cost them.

To put it another way: He will agree with the goals of the Democratic "extremists" but have his own much more moderate and less expensive programs.

There isn't much else Nixon can do but follow the middle of the road. The Democrats will pretty much stake out their position on the liberal side.

On foreign policy Nixon expects to sound like a statesman. What that means is anybody's guess. One guess is that in foreign affairs he'll follow President Eisenhower's be pleasant but stiff arm the Communists line.

The vice president expects to do well on domestic issues, provided the country remains prosperous. For instance, he thinks he can offer something to attract farmers.

He believes the Eisenhower administration made a mistake telling farmers how well off they are. Only this week the President came out against any increase in government-backed price supports for farm products.

The No. 1 issue, Nixon thinks, will be national security.

Nixon, pretty fast on his feet, thinks he can so handle himself that he will have all shades of Republicans with him, ranging from Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey and Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, both liberals, to Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, one of the most conservative Republicans in the Senate.

This may require a lot of doing since one of the outstanding Republicans and the only possible Nixon opponent in sight, Rockefeller carefully avoided so far endorsing Nixon for the presidency.

Women Not Love Clothes? It's Up to the Designers

"It's funny how seldom you meet a woman who really loves clothes," says Bettina Ballard in her new book, "In My Fashion."

Miss Ballard's book is for the woman who studies women's fashion magazines as though they were textbooks, who would enjoy a gossipy discussion of the leading fashion designers, and who would get a kick out of getting some intimate, behind-the-scenes glimpses of the world of high fashion.

But lack to that statement that few women today really love clothes. The truth, Miss Ballard, is that we never get a chance to love our clothes.

We buy them in fear and trembling that this season's waist and hem lines may not be next season's. The "new looks" crowd each other off the fashion scene so fast that buying clothes one hopes to be able to wear for several seasons is a real gamble.

Then, too, mass marketing that has made us a nation of uniformly well-dressed women also has denied our need to feel that a dress is particularly our own.

You may think you are going to love a dress but if you go to a large party and see the identical fashion on several other women, the love is quickly turned to loathing.

But, worst of all, in the recent past designers have seemed to try to outdo each other in their efforts to make us look ridiculous and feel ill at ease in our clothes. What woman could possibly love a sack dress, or a hobble skirt, or anything else in which she looks silly and feels uncomfortable?

At the moment, the designers seem to be trying to make us look pretty and feminine. If they will stick to that and not force so many "new looks" on us that we shop scared that what we buy may be outdated in a season, they'll find that there are still plenty of women who love clothes.

It's all up to the fashion industry. We'll wear what we're told is the latest fashion. But nobody can make us love clothes that aren't truly flattering.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Jesus of the Parables

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

It is possible to speculate upon what would have been the nature and emphasis of historic Christianity and the impact of Christianity upon modern life if more basic attention had been given to the Parables of Jesus.

This, for instance, in contrast with major interest in other parts of the New Testament, especially those which have been the subject of much controversy, and inherently against the very spirit of what Jesus taught in the Parables.

Take the basic matter of the Gospel itself, the Gospel of the Grace of God. Despite the spirit of the Parables concerning the loving and forgiving character of God, many books have been written concerning the nature of the Atonement, man's idea of justice and a presumption by man about what might well have been left to God in the pardoning of sinners.

A deep error in all this has been the ignoring that St. Paul was attacking the whole conception of sacrifice in appeasement of a supposedly divine being.

Against this whole conception Paul made the plain fact that "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them." (II Corinthians 5:19).

How different it would have been if all that Paul wrote had been interpreted in the light of that statement concerning the reconciling God, instead of much that Paul wrote in seeking to show how the conception of a reconciling God, "in Christ," destroyed the conception of a God demanding sacrifice.

An important point is that Paul's teachings concerning the reconciling God is precisely in harmony with the Gospel of God seeking and willing to pardon sinners as set forth by Jesus in the Parables.

It would seem that nothing could be plainer than the Gospel, as set forth in the three Parables recorded in Luke 15. These were the Parables of the Prodigal Son, of the Lost Sheep and the Lost Piece of Silver.

Some of the Parables of conduct come into controversy when regarded in relation to problems of today.

There is the Parable of the Laborers in the Field and the awarding "to every man a penny." It seems far removed from today's labor attitudes and disputes, but I think it must be said that the Parable has a bearing upon the spirit in which even modern problems can be solved.

Milk and Dairy Products Lead May Plentifuls List

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

Food and Markets Editor

The Public Gardens in Boston were faintly green with the spring urge. We lunched at a window in the Ritz-Carlton overlooking the trees with young leaves and ordered shad roe from Chesapeake Bay — always one of the most delicious signs of spring.

We like it broiled and served on toast with crisp bacon, a peeled new potato with parsley, a spring salad and crusty French rolls.

The roe (1 roe gives 2 servings) is first parboiled—simmered in water with salt and lemon juice a few minutes—drained, covered with cold water, then drained again. Next arrange on lightly buttered pan and broil quickly until delicately browned, then turn and broil on other side. Sprinkle frequently with melted butter while broiling.

For those who are not near the shad-bearing bays and rivers, there is frozen and canned roe. Both can be delicious in spring menus.

Spring news for May from the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C., reads:

"With the period of spring flush approaching a climax, milk and dairy products will be near the peak of production. Grocery shelves will also be crowded with canned freestone peaches (much of last year's record pack remains unsold). The same is true of cranberry products, another 1959 crop that fared poorly. Another plentiful food that fits well into spring eating is scallops. Vegetable fats and oils will also be in generous supply, including salad oils and dressings, as well as table and cooking fats and oils."

Congress To Review Surplus Allocations, Co-Op's Income Tax

By H. W. Hannah and N. G. P. Krausz

In the past 40 years Congress has repeatedly enacted income tax laws that are advantageous to co-ops. There seems to be no question but that Congress had this right. But now again it is being asked to review the propriety of this special tax treatment. The challenge is that co-ops enjoy an unfair tax position and that they have no right to this favoritism.

The principal issue is over the definition of the surplus money that co-ops accumulate in carrying on their business. This surplus is usually turned back or allocated to customers (called patrons) by prior agreement. That is, even before the patron does business with his co-op, the two agree that if the transaction results in a surplus at the end of the year it must be paid to the patron, or at least an I.O.U. given to him.

Because of this prior agreement, the co-op argues that this surplus is not income to the co-op — that the co-op never has a legal right to this money—that it is merely a saving for the patron to pick up at the end of the year. And the only reason the patron must wait until the end of the year is that the amount cannot be determined until then.

In a slightly different perspective, it is contended that patronage is a reduction in the cost of items purchased for the patron, much like a discount or rebate. It is additional payment for goods sold through the co-op, much as a broker takes out his cost of selling and pays the balance to the customer.

More Capital Needed

Possibly if co-ops had followed the original concept of cooperation—that of paying out most of their savings in cash and keeping only very limited reserves, the cry from private business of unfair competition might not have arisen, or at least would not have been so strong. But existing in a practical business world created a need on the part of co-ops for reserve capital to carry over the poor years and to make improvements to meet demands for service from patrons.

The easiest place to obtain capital has been from accumulated savings. By keeping the cash and giving the patron a certificate of the amount due him, the co-op obtains its capital and still retains a tax advantage. Such retained savings have not been and are not now taxable to the co-op, although a substantial number of co-ops are voluntarily paying income tax on retained savings. Under recent rulings the certificates are not taxable to the patron because they have no ascertainable value.

Are Savings Profit?

Business and industry say these so-called savings are really profits. They are used for expansion, the certificates issued are similar to stock dividends of business corporations, and the total wealth of the co-op and patron is increased. Such surplus would be labeled profit and taxed up to 52 per cent to noncooperatives. So the question has arisen: Why should it be called savings (or net margins) to co-ops and not taxed to them if allocated to patrons?

There is one real difference between co-ops and other kinds of business organization. The purpose of the co-ops is to benefit customers and not stockholders. An agreement to pay back savings to customers makes the co-op an agent, never entitled to any of this surplus.

However, to the extent that the surplus is indefinitely retained by the co-op, the difference from other businesses disappears. Price adjustments to the patron are never made, and the retained surplus becomes in effect a profit. Even the reinvestment theory so much referred to by the Revenue Service and others shows itself as pure fiction and does not help to define this surplus as anything but profit income.

Three Courses Open

Congress then seems to have at least three courses of action: 1) It can continue to give special attention to co-ops and allow them a deduction for allocated surpluses. 2) It can remove all tax advantage and make co-ops taxable on all earnings. 3) It can amend the law to force redemption of paper allocations within a reasonable period of time.

The last course would give value to the patrons' certificates, and they would be taxed on such value. This would meet at least one of the criticisms made by noncooperatives.

But the course that Congress adopts will depend on its current philosophy about the purpose and role of cooperatives.

Explains 15 Acre Wheat Exemption For 1960 Crop

Several factors affecting wheat producers who have wheat allotments of less than 15 acres for 1960 are being called to the attention of farmers today by Wilbur C. Williams, chairman of the County Agricultural Stablization committee.

The law that authorizes marketing quotas provides that in commercial wheat-producing states as much as 15 acres of wheat may be produced on any farm without being subject to marketing quota penalties. This provision applies to farms with no allotments as well as to farms with wheat acreage allotments of less than 15 acres.

However, wheat on such farms is subject to marketing quota penalties when more than 15 acres of wheat is produced. When the 15-acre limitation is exceeded, the excess bushelage of wheat is determined by multiplying the normal yield for the farm by the number of acres of wheat above the farm allotment.

Williams cited the following as examples: A farmer with a wheat allotment of 12 acres for 1960 produces 20 acres of wheat. The difference between the allotment and the wheat acreage—8 acres—would be considered excess acres. The 8 acres excess would be used in determining the amount of wheat subject to the marketing quota penalty. In the event a farm with no allotment has more than 15 acres of wheat, the entire acreage would be considered in excess and subject to marketing quota penalty. However, if the acreage over 15 is disposed of, the wheat would not be subject to marketing quotas.

Farmers who have applied for the feed wheat provision under which they may produce as much as 30 acres of wheat for use on the farm are not subject to marketing quota penalties unless they produce more than 30 acres.

The deadline for adjusting wheat acreage into compliance with the farm wheat allotment is May 25.

Only three U. S. presidents were born west of the Mississippi River: Hoover (Iowa), Truman (Missouri) and Eisenhower (Texas).

Who wouldn't want to save several dollars an acre in corn-growing costs? It can be done without sacrificing corn yields. It can be done by using minimum tillage in preparing the corn seed bed. Minimum tillage eliminates at least one or two diskings and harrowings. The very minimum is to plow and then plant. A modification of the plow-plant system is wheel-track planting as practiced for several years on the Dixon Springs Experiment Station.

Wheel-Track Planting

Planting in the tractor wheel tracks places the corn seed in a very adequate seed bed while the area between the rows is left rough and much less than an ideal seed bed for weeds. This means that your corn can get the jump on weeds; in fact, weeds between the rows may never become a great problem. At least the weeds can be handled with minimum cultivation.

Saves Soil and Water

It is the finely worked seed bed that is most susceptible to high soil and water losses. Heavy rainfall can quickly break down soil particles to a sticky, gummy surface seal that limits the rate at which water can soak into the soil. If water doesn't enter the soil freely and easily, it must run off. And when water runs off, it carries soil with it.

One-Fourteenth the Soil Loss

Last year Lee Gard, Station soil and water researcher, planted corn on a 5 percent slope. He used two systems, the usual or conventional seed bed and the minimum tillage seed bed with wheel-track planting. Corn yields were similar, 69 bushels for conventional planting and 76 bushels for the wheel-track planting. But for every bushel of corn produced on the conventional plots, 14 pounds of soil were lost. For every bushel of corn produced on the wheel-track plots, only one pound of soil was lost.

The water losses were five times as high from the conventional plots as from the wheel-track plots. Fifteen percent of the rainfall last summer was lost to runoff on the conventional plots, while only 3 percent was lost on the wheel-track plots.

Happy corn-growing!

CATTLE ON FEED INCREASE 8 PERCENT

Eight percent more cattle were on feed April 1 than on that date last year, according to a recent USDA report. For the 21 states having comparable figures for 1959, the number on feed April 1, 1960, totaled 6,401,000 compared with 5,939,000 a year ago.

WESTERN STATES INCREASE 17 PERCENT. Again the western states had the largest increase—17 percent. California led the western group with 34 percent and ranked fourth among all states with 496,000 head on feed. The north-central states had an overall increase of only 6 percent. Iowa, which led in numbers, was up 11 percent over last year with 1,605,000 head on feed. Nebraska, with 680,000, was down 1 percent but still ranked second. Illinois ranked third with 653,000, up 4 percent.

WEIGHT OF CATTLE. The percentage distribution in the various groups was similar to that of last year. Only in the 500- to 699-pound category was there a decrease—from 37 to 34 percent. The group weighing less than 500 pounds made up 7 percent of the total, the same as last year; and the 700-to 899-pound group composed 30 percent this year compared with 27 percent last year. Percentage of the two heavier groups was the same each year, the 900- to 1,099-pound group accounting for 24 percent and those 1,100 pounds and over accounting for the remaining 5 percent. The length of time the cattle had been on feed was also similar to last year.

KIND ON FEED. In the 21 states, 70 percent of the cattle were steers and steer calves compared with 72 percent last year. Heifers and heifer calves accounted for 29 percent this year and 27 percent last year. Cows and others accounted for the remaining 1 percent.

MARKETING INTENTIONS. Cattle feeders in the 21 states expect to market 53 percent of their April 1, 1960, inventory during April, May and June. If they carry out these intentions, marketing for this quarter will be 19 percent above the number marketed last year.

Marketings of fed cattle for the January-March quarter this year exceeded those of last year by 9 percent.

At this time last year, prices of fed cattle started a decline that continued generally throughout the rest of the year. The average price of choice steers at Chicago during the week of April 16 last year was $30.80 (the high for the year). The high at Chicago so far this year came during the week of March 10, when prices of choice steers averaged $28.23.

It is unlikely that prices of fed cattle will decline so sharply as they did last year. Prices are now at a lower level. Less competition from pork and a slightly stronger demand will help to strengthen the market in the next few months.

ROGER FOILES IN FINAL PHASE OF ARMY TRAINING

FORT EUSTIS, Va. (AHTNC)—Army Reserve Pvt. Roger D. Foiles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Foiles, Route 3, Carrollton, Ill., is receiving his final phase of training under the Reserve Forces Act program with The Transportation Training Command at Fort Eustis, Va. The training is scheduled to be concluded July 23.

Foiles is being trained in the duties of a transportation specialist. Upon completion of this phase of training, he is scheduled to spend the remainder of his military service with the 198th Air Transportation Unit, an Army Reserve unit in Alton.

Foiles is a 1959 graduate of Carrollton High School and attended Southern Illinois University.

Fertilizer use has been the biggest change in farming. Farmers applied eight times as much nitrogen in 1958-9 as they did 10 years ago. Use of soluble phosphate has increased about 2½ times. Potash application has tripled.

Heavy equipment used too early on wet soil brings on serious compaction problems. It hurts the soil's capacity to take in water and air and prevents roots from penetrating freely

Bankers Learn Swine Confinement Systems 'Not For Everyone'

The need for skilled management ability and high capital investment should cause hog producers to weigh their decisions carefully before switching to a confined rearing system.

A. G. Mueller, University of Illinois agricultural economist, pointed out last Tuesday that advancements in nutrition, disease control, and engineering have made confinement hog systems possible. But the management problems of adopting new techniques and carrying out the day-to-day operations can make the difference between success and failure.

Here is how Mueller appraises the merits of pasture and confinement systems:

Feed costs are not greatly different for either system. Confinement may make automatic feed handling easier. But the cost advantage from complete mixed rations of corn and fortified soybean meal is available to either confinement or pasture systems.

Shifting hog pasture to corn will increase crop incomes by as much as $40 to $45 an acre. But producers using a pasture system may get more fertility value from the manure saved. Also all hog pastures can't be shifted to corn.

About $25 Per Pig

Investment costs of new hog raising facilities may be quite high. Although costs vary widely, estimates show that they come to about $25 per pig capacity. Most confinement layouts can handle only about two groups of pigs a year. So annual costs of the confined rearing unit come to about 65 cents per 100 pounds of pork marketed. Buildings with heating, air conditioning or automatic feeding equipment will cost more than this.

Labor costs may be less with confinement systems. Much depends on how well the system is planned and method of manure disposal.

Unexpected Problems

Switching to confinement systems has created management problems that many farmers did not expect. Disease control, manure handling, tail biting, scheduling farrowings, and building design have caused troubles. Top managers will solve these problems, others will not.

Interest in hog production in confinement will continue, Mueller believes. But the estimate by some that 75 per cent of the hogs will be raised in confinement within 10 years looks high to him. To have such a development would require about half of the farmers now raising hogs to invest from $6,000 to $20,000 in hog buildings. He thinks competition for investment funds may restrict any rapid shift to confinement systems.

Mueller spoke before the annual Illinois Bankers Agricultural conference sponsored by the Illinois Bankers Association, the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and Division of University Extension.

Plan Airlift Of Pigs To Caribbean Island

Farm leaders of Morgan and Scott county will join representatives of CROP (Christian Rural Overseas Program) Monday to map out plans for the procurement of 125 purebred pigs and their delivery to Haiti. There the pigs will be distributed to 4-H club members and to farmers in an effort to improve the food supply of the island.

This project was begun last fall during the annual CROP solicitation in the two counties. In Morgan county pledges of 16 pigs were made and a total of $1,792.36 — the gift of just over 500 people — was contributed in cash.

It is currently planned to select pigs from the three breeds — Duroc, Hampshire and Poland China—which Haiti specialists say thrive best in that climate. They are to weigh about 50 pounds, with a sex ratio of nine females to one male. They will leave here about May 25 by truck to Miami, where they will travel by air to Haiti.

They will be accompanied by two residents of the area who will pay their own expenses and will give, upon their return, an account of what they saw in Haiti.

There will be no organized solicitation for the campaign this spring, according to present plans, but those who wish to donate either pigs or cash should get in touch with Roy Smith, Route 5, Jacksonville; Richard Nesmith, MacMurray College; H. Yates Potter, Route 1, Jacksonville; Gilbert Todd, Elliott State bank; Dale Hewitt, Scott county farm adviser, or George Trull, Morgan county farm adviser.

Victory Club Scores In Judging Contest

Individual score cards tabulated Friday showed that the Victory 4-H club of Chapin dominated Morgan county's participation in the annual livestock judging show and contest held at the state fairgrounds April 23. Eight of the top 11 contestants were from the Victory club, which is led by Martin Burrus and Charles Williams.

Altogether 35 4-H agriculture club members represented Morgan county at the annual contest, which is sponsored by the Land of Lincoln Livestock association. Many counties, including Morgan, use the results there to determine the makeup of teams that will enter the state contest to be held in Champaign next July.

The local 4-H committee will select six members to represent the county. Since contestants must be at least 15 years old to represent the state in the national contest, contestants in that age group are customarily named to the county team.

Ten rings of cattle, swine and sheep were judged during the afternoon, following the morning school of instruction. The top 11 scores follow:

Find Some Bean Seed Very Low In Germination

There are some mighty poor lots of soybean seed in the county, judging from the last 23 samples tested by the Morgan County Farm Bureau.

Seventeen of them show strong germination ability; four were poor, and two were very poor.

Prior samples brought in to be tested by Mrs. Rowena Enke all ranked high in germination.

Seedmen earlier had stated that sprouting ability of soybeans varied much. Those that had been combined early last fall were generally good, while later beans apparently were hurt by molds which developed during the high temperature, high humidity days that accompanied the recurrent rains.

One lot of seed tested last week had only 5% germination—only five sprouts from 100 seeds. Other low marks were: 24, 50, 53, 60, 76.

Wheat Acreage Report Needed

Any farmer who has seeded wheat but who does not have a wheat allotment should notify the county ASC office of his estimated acreage, Wallace T. Hembrough of the county office said Friday. This need not be done if the wheat has been previously reported either by farm reporter inspection or return of the official report card by the producer.

"When the county office is aware of the existence of wheat on the farm steps can be taken to make the farmer eligible for a marketing card. Under the wheat marketing quota program, any grower who produces more than 15 acres of wheat is subject to a penalty on any "excess" over his allotment. The penalty must be paid before the wheat is eligible for market," Hembrough said.

THURSDAY'S RAIN HALTS FIELD WORK

The farmers of this area took full advantage of the clear weather of last week as they ran their tractors and plows practically around the clock until rained out Thursday night. In fact, many of them were driven home slightly before midnight by the rain, which measured at different spots from .65 of an inch up to nearly an inch.

Some farmers were able to work Monday through Thursday; others began Tuesday and a few on wet, sticky ground didn't get going until the next day.

It was estimated Friday that about 60% of the spring plowing was completed.

A University of Illinois agricultural economist figures that use of minimum tillage instead of conventional tillage saves farmers $146 to $159 in operating costs on 100 acres of corn.

Larger farms can operate with lower costs per acre. Studies by University agricultural economists show that labor, machinery and buildings costs average about $10 an acre less on 300-acre than on 10-acre grain farms.

Anyone For Old Papers? Iowa Man Has Plenty

George L. Kyseth of Clarion, Iowa, recently bought two boxes of old papers at an auction sale. Like many another top bidder at an auction, he's wondering if what he bought has any value.

In a letter to the Journal Courier the Iowa man says most of the papers are deeds, indentures and other legal documents, plus statements from business houses, and that most of them concern the Strawn family and the Montgomery family.

They're dated from 1835 to 1880.

"I thought that some historical society or some descendant of the families might be interested in getting these papers," Kyseth wrote. "I would appreciate it if you would turn this letter over to anyone you think might be interested."

He inclosed a statement sent by E. C. Lax to Isaiah Strawn on June 14, 1880.

A Go-Getter

E. C. Lax was commonly described in the newspapers of that period as "a substantial and enterprising business man." His ornate letterhead stated he was a "Dealer in Grain, Coal, Wool, Cement, Lime, Plaster of Paris, Mixed Paints, Office on Sandy street, near the Toledo, Wabash & Western Railroad."

He also handled "Studebaker's Wagons, Royce Reaper, and a Full Line of Agricultural Implements." And he was "Agent Rock River Sheathing & Roofing Co, Cunard and Inman Lines of Steamers."

It is apparent that Lax was an enterprising man.

Isaiah Strawn was the third son of Jacob Strawn. In 1880 he was a successful farmer and livestock man, but he never rose to the stature of his illustrious father.

The first entry on the statement was dated April 23, 1879, when Strawn bought 100 lbs. of iron at 2c per lb. and 8 lbs. of roofing paper at 4½c, total $5.82.

Inflation Note

Iron at 2c a pound indicates the wages of mill workers and railroad men weren't up to present standards.

On June 24 he bought two barrels of salt at $1.40 a barrel and 5 pounds of wagon tire iron for a dollar; total, $3.80.

Strawn must have had quite a few cattle on hand, for on Nov. 11 he bought more salt, three barrels. The price, though, had gone up to $1.62½.

On the same day he bought "16 lbs. bolts & Clevis at 21c, 35c." This indicates that blacksmiths weren't paid much in those days. But they ranked high as far as wages were concerned. They made less than a cigarmaker, but more than a brick mason. The average blacksmith earned more than the average doctor.

On Dec. 27 Strawn bought some more tire iron and another barrel of salt.

On May 28, 1880, he got 60 lbs. of cement, 60c. On June 1 he got a half-barrel of lime at 60c and an empty barrel for a dime, which indicates that it was whitewashing time at the Strawn farm.

On June 14, 1880, Lax billed his customer for $19.10 and Strawn proved to be excellent pay, for the bill was receipted "Paid In Full, June 18, 1880, E. C. Lax."

The Journal Courier wrote Kyseth, "We'll run a story about your purchase in Sunday's paper and if anybody is interested you'll hear from him."

John Schultz On Temporary Duty In Greenland

CAMP TUTO, GREENLAND (AHTNC) — Army Specialist Four John Schultz Jr., whose parents live at 915 Washington St., Beardstown, Ill., recently arrived at Camp Tuto, Greenland, and is performing a temporary tour of duty with the army's Transportation Environmental Operations Group.

The mission of the group is to conduct experimental operations in quest of improved methods of transportation. While on temporary duty, Schultz will also participate in Project Lead Dog, an 1,800-mile expedition to the northernmost points of Greenland.

Schultz is scheduled to return to his regular assignment as a tractor operator with the group at Fort Eustis, Va., in August.

He entered the Army in October 1957.

QUITE AN INCREASE IN OUTPUT!

According to a recent farmer Outlook letter, soybean production in the United States has increased over 500% during the last 20 years. From 90 million bushels in 1939 to 579 million bushels in 1958.

ON THE MOVE!

Farm population in the United States has dropped 13% in the past ten years. The country side is not entirely deserted though, because in the same period there has been a 64% increase in the number of non farm rural residents.

MORE BEEF

Thirty years ago United States ranchers and farmers produced only enough cattle to provide 50 pounds of beef per person in a year — less than a pound a week. There was much talk then about overproduction. Now U. S. cattlemen supply enough beef to provide 80 pounds per person. This is 60% more than in 1929.

FROM THE CORN CRIB!

A typical sergeant barged into the barracks occupied by a group of inductees, turned on the lights and shouted, "It's four o'clock!"

Whereupon one of the inductees from his bunk said, "Brother, you'd better get to bed. We've got a big day ahead of us in the morning!"

Across the Fields and Furrows is brought to you daily at 12:45 P.M. on WLDS, 1180 on your dial by the people at Elliott State Bank.

P-A-G hybrids are worth up to $50 more per bag of seed

Every year, hundreds of side-by-side comparative yield tests are made to prove P-A-G hybrid performance. 15,776 of these on-the-farm tests show that P-A-G out-yielded the average of other hybrids by more than 9 bushels of #2 shelled corn per acre. Figuring a planting rate of 6 acres per bushel of seed, that's an extra $50 profit from each bushel of seed planted.

Genuine Pfister Hybrids can return greater profits from your corn acreage. This spring, plant all P-A-G . . . order soon to reserve your supply.

How Heavier Clothes Keep Man Cooler

Temperatures as high as 300° Fahrenheit have been produced in heat chambers already in use at the Wright Air Development Center.

At that temperature, a man can work for 10 minutes without clothes. In flying clothes he can work for 15 minutes at 240°, but he can withstand the same temperature indefinitely with protective clothing.

WADC scientists believe that with this ventilated garment man can withstand a cockpit ambient (completely surrounding) temperature of 400 degrees. In the picture at the top of this column this suit is worn by M/Sgt. Bradford Moore.

Before and after any heat experiments, subjects are carefully weighed to measure moisture loss. In the picture M/Sgt. Bradford Moore is being weighed, on a delicately balanced scale, by Capt. C. T. Adams, Sr., before a heat test.

Too much heat should be a problem only during exit and re-entry into the earth's atmosphere on any space flight. However, these periods should be very brief. As a matter of fact, the briefer they are the hotter they will be.

While in outer space a spaceship will be hot on one side and freezing cold on the other, because there is no air in space to scatter sunlight into shadows. This problem is easily solved by mixing white paint with the metal hull of the space ship. The method used would be similar to that used to color aluminum tumblers.

With this protective coloration the space ship's walls would reflect all light and heat coming from outside the ship away. The same paint would reflect all light and heat inside the ship back and keep it from being lost in outer space.

A space ship using this system would need to carry along heating and air conditioning units to keep the temperature at a livable level inside. If the living quarters of space ship or station rotated they could be kept at a constant temperature by painting the walls with stripes. Thus it would gain enough heat to keep from getting too cold and lose enough to keep from getting too hot.

To study pulsing heat loads, like those that might be experienced during a skip re-entry, a small chamber was built. Skip re-entry is a type of re-entry where the returning space ship skips along the top of the atmosphere to slow down, like a stone skipping over the water.

In this chamber it was found that: a nude man, when the temperature was raised 50 degrees Fahrenheit per minute, could stand a peak of 350 degrees; while at a raise of 100 degrees a minute, he could take a peak of 400 degrees. Lightly clothed, a man could take 450 degrees, while in heavy, arctic clothing, he was able to stand 500 degrees.

Temperatures higher than 500 degrees weren't tried, because of the danger of setting the clothing on fire.

The reason a man can stand higher temperatures with heavier clothes than he can with none is that the clothes provide insulation against dry heat. This is why the Arabs wear long heavy robes and turbans in the hot desert sun.

LET'S GO BIRDING—

Find Harlequin Duck Well Name

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Perhaps the rarest bird that has been seen this past winter in the Middle West was the Harlequin Duck that appeared on Lake Decatur about the time of the Christmas Bird Census.

Although it was not obliging enough to show itself on the day of the census, it appeared many times later and provided much excitement for birders. As guests of Mr. and Mrs. Q. Turner Nearing, two of us from Jacksonville also enjoyed it on March 26 and added a new bird to our life list.

It is true that we had to try three times before we succeeded in seeing the duck, but patience certainly paid off. At first our host took us to a spot where it had been seen. There we saw ducks but no Harlequin.

We then went to the Lost Bridge section of the lake. Many ducks, including Red-breasted Mergansers, were swimming and resting on the wide body of water before us.

Other bird watchers were at the same spot to see the rare bird. All of us fixed our binoculars upon the great expanse of water covered with the hundreds of ducks and gulls, searching in vain for the "lord of the waters." In vain telescopes were focused upon promising spots.

Mr. Nearing hopefully suggested that we leave and examine other possible areas, then return to try again. We did, but had no better luck. Even birders grow hungry.

We left the duck scene for a good lunch and looked at some of Mr. Nearing's excellent pictures of this Harlequin Duck. These were a compensation for our failure in locating the coveted bird.

After a leisurely lunch we returned to the same spot. Without the help of binoculars or telescopes we soon caught sight of a small, blue-gray duck attractively and fantastically decorated with bizaare patches and spots. It was then that we realized that it had been named properly for the fictional character, Harlequin, the likeable buffoon lover of Columbine.

There at our very feet, as we stood on Lost Bridge, we saw this parti-colored foreign-looking duck winding its way with rapid ease around the piling of the bridge, under it, and on out into the broad body of water. Soon it rose in the air and flew on to join the long dark line of ducks in the distance and again to be lost to our searching gaze.

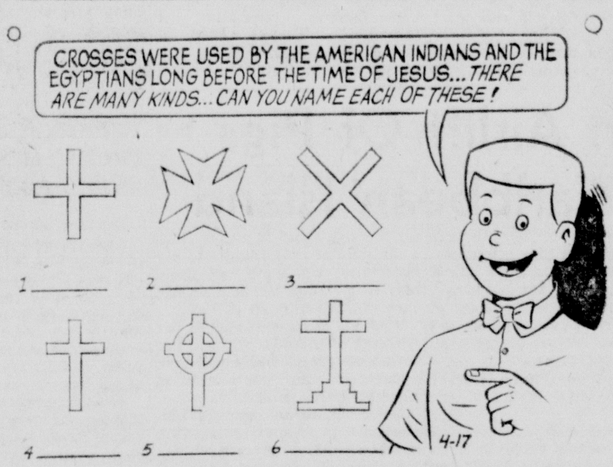

Edward Howe Forbush, an authority on the Harlequin Duck, has written of the Harlequin: "This is the loveliest of the Sea Ducks, but its beauty is reserved mainly for the cold and inhospitable North, and the wave-lashed rocks of isolated ledges in the wintry sea . . . They are fond of swift waters, mad currents, tide rips and flowing seas."

But not more than 70 miles from Jacksonville, we enjoyed the privilege of seeing this Sea Duck, the beauty which is "reserved mainly for the cold and inhospitable North. Lake Decatur is neither a mad current nor a flowing sea, but this lone Harlequin Duck seemed very satisfied with its borrowed home. And we also felt very satisfied and grateful to Mr. Nearing for showing us this treat in the bird world.

This Strange Animal May Be In Your Yard

By N. Richard

Part 2: Why We Miss Them

How is it that people can escape noticing these salamanders when they have lived in the same area all their lives? Can it be that they are that uncommon?

All salamanders avoid sunlight. In fact, many do not move about at all during the day.

It is only during the early spring that they become active because this is their breeding season. At this time they are most apt to be seen.

The Tiger Salamander lays its eggs in masses on the stems of plants that grow in water. When the eggs hatch, they develop into young that breath by means of gills much like tadpoles or frogs which are their closest relatives.

Soon they develop legs and lungs. Now they move onto the land as adults. In some unusual cases, the young (larvae) do not develop into adults. They live their complete lives in water.

When they do develop into adults, they live in fairly moist places such as marshes, moist woods or near ponds. They can still swim but must come to the surface to breath.

Salamanders eat insects and worms and may live as long as 11 years. One very close relative, the spotted salamander, has smaller spots which do not appear on the sides and may live as long as 25 years.

If you find a salamander it is possible to keep it as a pet, and one was found in Jacksonville recently, but it should be returned to nature after a few weeks. They may be kept in terraria.

Half of the tank should be solid material and the other should contain two to three inches of water with leaves and bark floating on its surface. Do not keep them in direct sunlight.

If you are patient, they will eat worms which are held directly in front of them on the end of tweezers.

Take the time to learn about these animals and their habits. Also, be aware of others around you. Knowledge of nature is its own reward.

CQ RADIO HAMS—

VFO Oscillator

By JOSEPH A. SMITH

The similarity between colpitts and the crystal controlled harmonic oscillator is quite clear. The only major difference is that the V.F.O. uses an L—C tuned grid circuit rather than a crystal of fixed frequency.

L1 and C1 must be quite firmly mounted as must C2 the bandspread capacitor variable lest frequency instability result on the slightest jar or bump. The Capacitors C3 and C4 must be close tolerance (low drift) Silver Mica type capacitors.

For T.V.I. reduction purposes the V.F.O. is usually enclosed in a metal shielding case. Air holes or spaces are covered with fine mesh screen material.

Any V.F.O. should be regularly checked against either a highly stable 100 KC frequency standard or directly against W.W.V. being received over a stable receiver.

Any drift can then be corrected within the V.F.O. The A. R. R. L. Handbook suggests (and publishes a good example) the use of a cathode follower and a buffer stage that should follow any V.F.O. oscillator for maxium stability.

If you value your amateur ticket you should never trust Even The Best One any closer than 10 or 15 KCs from the adge of any amateur band. It might drift outside the band.

It is entirely possible to construct (home-brewed) a V.F.O. that has a tolerance of around .04 per cent which is roughly equivalent to the ordinary run of crystal. (True, Some precision crystals run as close as .005 per cent or better, but How They Cost! They're largely used as a frequency standard crystal.)

Such a Clapp type V.F.O. has been in use at W9ZDN for over four years now. It consists of a 6AG7 Clapp Oscillator, a 6F6 untuned first buffer, and a 6L6G tuned second buffer. The power supply furnishes 350 volts unregulated and 150 volts of electronically regulated voltage for the oscillator and the screen grid of both buffer amplifiers.

The V.F.O. drift over a seven day period generally does not exceed approximately 400 to 500 cycles; not bad at all for home-brewed equipment. A Velvet Vernier dial was used here attached to the bandspread variable capacitor and a frequency versus dial number graph was made for the 80, 75, and 40 meter band so that any frequency within approximately 1 KC can be read.

The License Study Manual examination questions include important questions dealing with methods of figuring crystal drift, absolute frequency limits, etc. These are of utmost importance to every amateur. Study them well.

Pink Elephants

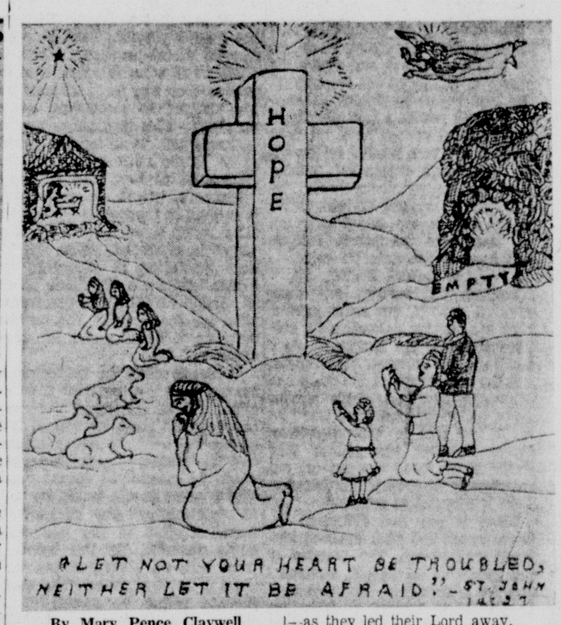

By Mabel Hall Goltra

Pink elephants are phantoms,
I'll sing of something real;
I saw a pink mosquito
Upon my window sill.

You may think I was dreaming
While I really was awake;
It may have fallen in my paint
And crawled out there to shake.

The Easter Story

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 4. Resurrection

The sentence had now become valid—the Cross was ready too—and Calvary was close to the City, where the lengthening shadows grew; so there on the wind-swept hillside, Christ's Cross was raised on high, between two lesser, common ones, on which two "thieves" must die; and one thief cried in anger for Christ to set him free—while the other in faith repenting, cried, "Lord, remember me!"

Dear Jesus looked down upon him, and whispered, "Thous shalt be." O wonderful, merciful Saviour—"with Me in eternity!"

Then tortured and wounded and bleeding, The Saviour in sorrow cried, "Father in Heaven, forgive them"—and gasping the prayer, He died!

Some were bowed down with sorrow, the faithful who wept that day, and they followed the Roman soldiers—as they led their Lord away.

Then they begged to remove The Body, and Pilate gave his consent, in fear, for the streets were trod by the dead—and "The veil of the Temple was rent!"

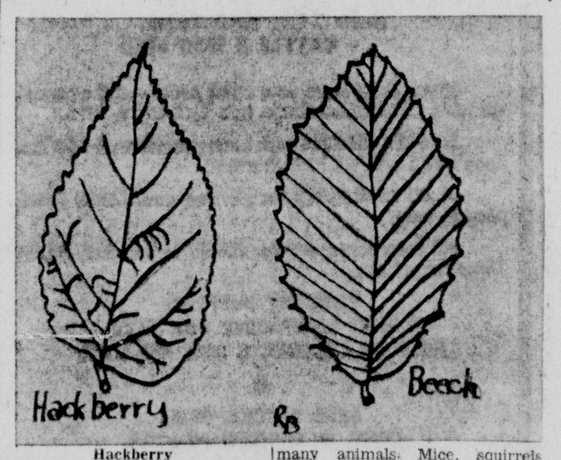

In a new-made tomb, they laid Him, and the entrance was sealed so tight by the guards for fear His Disciples would steal Him away by night; but God, all love, and all mercy, Whose Power no man can slay—sent down His Angels from Heaven to roll the great stone away; and the guards became as dead men, struck dumb by fear and gloom, as Jesus was resurrected—and living came forth from the Tomb!

The Tomb is empty, O World, today, and the Cross on yonder hill is a symbol of HOPE to every man, for The Saviour liveth still; and He's coming again, O weary World—coming to claim His own—seek eternal life through His sacrifice—"The way of The Cross—leads Home!"

Wonder World —

Trees Feed Animals

By Rip Barnsdall

Hackberry

The hackberry's fruit is eaten by many birds. The fruit is cherry-like.

The hackberry tree grows to a height of 30 to 40 feet. The bark is grayish-brown in color. It is most often found in regions where limestone is plentiful.

Beech

The beech is one of our more attractive trees. It has a smooth gray bark, and stands out as an ornamental tree.

The nuts are eaten as food by many animals. Mice, squirrels, bears, racoons, and turkeys feed on them.

In Europe, the leaves of the beech were often used to stuff mattresses in preference to using straw. The beech leaves held up for a number of years and did not develop a musty smell.

Opening lead—♥ Q

She won the opening heart in dummy and naturally led a trump. East rose with the ace and made the mistake of not cashing his ace of diamonds. Instead, he returned a heart whereupon Mrs. Nichols developed a squeeze for the rest of the tricks.

The key play came immediately. She won the heart and promptly ruffed a third heart. This left West with the only high heart so that when Mrs. Nichols ran out all her spades West was a hopeless trap. He had to hang on to a heart. Mrs. Nichols discarded both diamonds and a low club from dummy and finally after the four of hearts had done its work of squeezing West she let that go also and wound up with four club tricks.

Of course, there are better and more complicated squeezes but the proof of the pudding is in the eating and Mrs. Nichols played for and made the maximum.

Newlyweds Will Be At Home In Eldred

HARDIN—Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Shireman, who were married Saturday at St. John's Lutheran church in Kampsville, are residing in Eldred following their return from a brief wedding trip. The bride is the former Miss Bonnie Branham, daughter of Mrs. Walter Branham of Hardin, and the late Mr. Branham.

Rev. Duane Brunette, pastor of the church, officiated at the 11 a.m. double ring ceremony, for which the church was decorated with potted plants, white gladioli and Easter lilies, arranged with greenery. Soloist Mrs. Dorothy Kinder sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Mary Ann Turnbeaugh, organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Cleo Holterfield of Eldred. She wore a gown of chantilly lace over antique satin, fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and fingertip sleeves. Seed pearls and sequins enhanced the fitted bodice. Her very full skirt was caught up in a ruffled bustle and cascaded into a full length train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums, centered with white orchids.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. Paul Schobernd, matron of honor, and brides maids Miss Hazel Hill of Hardin and Miss Jeannie Shireman, sister of the groom. They were in identical ballerina length frocks of ice-blue lace over satin, styled with bouffant skirts, with which they wore blue headbands and nose veils. Their flowers were blue and white carnations in colonial bouquets.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement, where Mrs. Henry Triplett of Hardin and Mrs. Cleo Holterfield of Eldred, sisters of the bride, were assisted in serving by Mrs. Velma Carpenter of Hardin.

Mrs. Shireman is a graduate of Unit 40 High School in Hardin, and Mr. Shireman was graduated from Carrollton High School. Both are employed at Columbiana Seed Corn Company at Eldred.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

It's election year again, and the man who is elected come November will be the 35th President of the United States. Or will he? Count the actual number of chief executives from Washington thru Eisenhower and you come up with . . . only 33. How come? Because Grover Cleveland was elected twice on different occasions and is listed officially as No. 22 and No. 24. This "double-numbering" of Cleveland has aroused a bit of controversy. And even the Congressional Directory has never been quite sure about it. Until recent years, it listed the presidents by count, Truman being No. 32. But before Eisenhower's election, the Directory changed its mind, and now Truman is No. 33 and Eisenhower No. 34. So take your pick. And be right either way. After all, our next president will be the 34th man to hold the office . . . and the 35th president, too.

With summer coming, we thought this definition appropriate . . . SUMMER: When you get the urge to hit the open road . . . which you usually find closed for repairs. But you'll always find E. W. Brown "open for business" when you're looking for a good clean used car. Our fine late-model used cars have been thoroughly reconditioned by top mechanics to assure you of a spanking clean, mechanically sound automobile. For the tops in safe dependable used cars, come in soon. E. W BROWN, 406 S. Main. Phone 5-4333.

Included in the choir are Mrs. Walker Thornley, her daughter, Mrs. Mary Celia Plattner; three sons, Edgar, James Spencer and Lloyd and each of their families. They were chosen to form the family choir due to the fact that several of them normally sing in one of the three church choirs.

There will be a total of 19 in the family choir, including Mrs. Thornley, her four children, their wives and husbands and the ten grandchildren: Beverly, Ronnie, Janice, Marilyn, Randy, Jackie, L. E., Jeanine, Margaret and Gailen.

One grandchild, Eleanor, is married and quite active in the local Church of Christ. Of the nineteen in the choir, 11 regularly sing in either the Sanctuary Youth Chorister or Caroleer choirs.

This will also be recognized as Loyalty Sunday in the church, as each family is urged to renew their church vows and pledge their support for the coming year.

Glasgow Mission Society Meets At Price Home

GLASGOW—The Mission Society of the Glasgow Christian church met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Nell Price. The meeting opened with a hymn and the Lord's Prayer. There were 15 members in attendance. Roll call was answered with a scripture verse containing the word "Faith" and Easter readings.

The worship theme was "Go Forth and Lead, O Child of God." The leader was Mrs. Erma McCullah. Scripture was read from the 13th chapter of John. A business session followed. The lesson, "The Need for Leadership," was presented.

If the church is to continue to grow it must have trained leaders. There is a special need for preachers, Christian teachers, and Christian medical workers in the Belgian Congo. The training of leadership is one of the major tasks of the church in the Belgian Congo.

Several papers were read. Mrs. Edith Jones was lesson leader. The meeting was closed with a hymn, "Blessed Be the Tie," and repeating of the Missionary benediction.

During the social hour one game, Naming Flowers, was conducted by lesson leader, Mrs. Jones. A flower exchange was held. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be on May 11 at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Evans.

Tiros, The Weather Watcher

Left: Over Red Sea, Tiros takes in Egypt, Arabia and eastern Mediterranean (wide-angle) Right: Island of Cyprus in center; to the north, Turkey lies covered by clouds (wide-angle)

To the scientist it's pretty crude, but not bad as a starter. To the man in the street it's another cause for wonder and admiration as he looks upward at the sky. That's Tiros, America's weather reconnaissance satellite, which has given men their best idea so far of what the earth looks like from space. As pictures above show, it looks remarkably like our maps always told us it did. In its young life, with its two television cameras flashing back thousands of pictures, Tiros has told scientist things about the weather they never knew before—such as the fact that even mild and widespread storms have the same spiral cloud structure as the violent hurricane. Weathermen claim Tiros has opened up a new era in meteorology. The men who built and launched it are justifiably proud.

Mrs. Donald F. Slater

Janet Leitze Of Alsey Weds Payson Man

Miss Janet Elaine Leitze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leitze of Alsey, became the bride of Donald F. Slater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Slater, Payson, on Easter Sunday.

The ceremony was performed at four o'clock in the afternoon at the Alsey Baptist church. The bride's great uncle, Reverend C. L. Leitze of Winchester, performed the double ring service, assisted by Reverend John Plunkett of Alsey. Mr. Leitze gave his daughter in marriage.

Palms, baskets of gladioli, snapdragons and carnations decorated the altar of the church. Miss Nita Ford presided at the organ and accompanied Richard Alred who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Loren Barber was matron of honor and Robert W. Slater attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Ernest Slater and Neil Larimore, brother and brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Lace and Net Gown

The bride wore a lovely full-length wedding dress of nylon net and handclipped Chantilly lace. The bodice, lace over taffeta, formed a V at back and front with a Sabrina scalloped neckline adorned with sequins.

The long lace sleeves tapered at the wrists with satin buttons. Her bouffant skirt of lace ruffles and nylon net was full over the hipline and featured a panel at front and back.

The bride's fingertip veil fell from a tiara of sequins and chiffon flowers. She carried a clutch bouquet of white carnations and pink roses. The bride's only jewel accessory was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Barber wore pale yellow nylon on taffeta with a matching hat. She carried yellow and white carnations.

Reception Follows

Immediately after the church ceremony a reception was held in the community room of the Alsey grade school. Pink and white were effectively used in decorations. The beautiful bride's cake in colonade tiers was frosted white and decorated with pink. Delicate spun sugar fans, slippers, doves and a dainty flower-filled basket adorned the many-layered cake topped with a bride and groom couple.

Guests were served cake, pink tinted punch, pink and white mints and salted nutmeats. Mrs. Carl Hoots and Mrs. Kenneth Leitze served cake; Mrs. Robert Fryman and Mrs. Clarence Thompson presided at the punch bowl.

Miss Susan Palmer was in charge of the gift table and Miss Sharon Schafer registered guests.

When the newlyweds left on a short honeymoon the bride was wearing a two-piece navy linen costume with white accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Slater will make their home at Plainville, in Adams county in the near future. The bridegroom is employed in nearby Quincy, Ill.

Mrs. Uhnken asked all committee chairmen to have yearly reports ready for the May meeting.

Mrs. Lucius Shepard, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Carlton Schumacher and Mrs. Charles Williams who conducted a group of fun songs to well known tunes, accompanied by Mrs. Andy Ommen on her accordion. A box of materials for making hats was displayed and everyone chose, from the flowers, ribbons, flower pots, kitchen utensils and other articles, something with which to make her own hat.

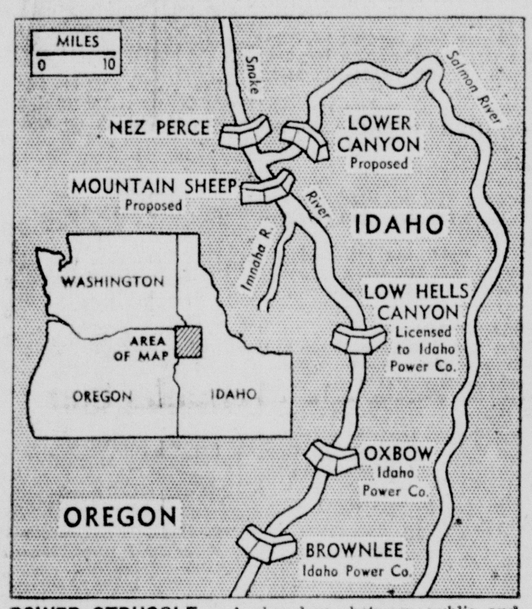

Mrs. Shepard, as Hedda Hopper, was commentator as each model displayed her hat. Mrs. Everett Marshall took pictures and presented them to the club for their press book. The group sang the "Mad-Hatter's Parade." Door prizes were won by Mrs. Walter Uhnken, Miss Amy Onken, Mrs. Sherwood Surratt and Mrs. Louis Werries.

Guests present were Miss Amy Onken, Mrs. Andy Ommen, and Mrs. Everett Marshall. The meeting was adjourned with the club prayer, led by Mrs. Carlton Schumacher.

MEALS ON WHEELS—The aged, handicapped and ailing of Kalamazoo, Mich., benefit greatly from the "Meals on Wheels" community service project. Volunteer workers, above, are delivering hot meals at nominal cost to shut-ins. This is but one phase of the city's co-operative project to bring ease and contentment to the older folks through service and recreation.

POWER STRUGGLE — A showdown between public and private power advocates is shaping up in the northwest. Brownlee was the first of three dams to be built by the Idaho Power Co., a private concern. All were authorized by the Federal Power Commission after prolonged opposition by those congressmen favoring federal power development. Oxbow Dam will be completed this year. Hells Canyon Dam is in its early stages. The Washington Public Power Supply system has filed for the Nez Perce site. A federal commission okay would assure that some of the Snake River power potential will be publicly rather than privately controlled. Advocates claim this would block monopolistic practices. If the Nez Perce Dam is built it will drown out a projected dam at Mountain Sheep sought by four northwest private power companies.

Aussies To Study U.S. Boat Methods

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia plans to pick the brains of the United States' top boat designers and build its America's Cup challenger in strictest secrecy.

"We are studying the features of America's best 12-meter yachts," said Alan Payne, the naval architect who has been given the job of designing the Australian boat. "We aim to build a better and faster craft."

The New York Yacht Club Thursday formally accepted a challenge from the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron for a best four-out-of-seven race series off Newport, R.I., in the late summer of 1962. It's the first time the 109-year-old event has involved any nation outside the United States, British Isles and Canada.

Payne said he expected to have his design completed in October with building to begin immediately.

"Details of my design are being kept secret," he said. "Sketch plans? No, that's something we are not going to make public."

Unanimous Win To Tiger Jones

BOSTON (AP)—Durable Ralph (Tiger) Jones gave young Joe de Nucci a painful boxing lesson and body pounding Friday night en route to a unanimous 10-round decision at the Boston Arena.

Tiger, from New York, unleashed a slashing body attack to the inside, then pursued his 20-year-old opponent from Newton, Mass., in the early stages.

In the middle rounds, Jones appeared to be toying with DeNucci as he bobbed, danced, invited DeNucci to come into close quarters, then gave him a two-fisted reception.

Tired in the ninth, Jones looked like a possible candidate for DeNucci's famed slugging power. But the Tiger cut loose with two booming lefts to the body and head in the 10th which quickly stemmed the brief DeNucci tide.

Referee Eddie Bradley and Judge Joe Heirty each voted 98-95 for Jones on the Massachusetts point system. Judge Harry French had it 98-92 for the winner. The Associated Press card had Jones 99-92.

CRIMSON GOLFERS EDGE GRIFFIN

Curtis (J) defeated Irvine (G) 2-0.

Wells (J) defeated Geitzenner (G) 2-0.

Buckley (G) defeated Gross (J) 2-0.

Thoma (G) defeated Bowles (J) 2-0.

Thayer (J) defeated Thein (G) 2-0.

BIG PAYOFFS

CHICAGO (AP)—Big payoffs were the rule at Sportsman's Park Friday.

One handicapper among 8,811 picked four consecutive winners in the Daily Double "Quintet" to win $12,881.

There was also a $984.60 daily double return. Two $10 tickets—each worth $4,923—were sold on the combination.

The track also paid off on 39 $2 tickets.

WOLVES SHUTOUT HAWKEYES, 6-0

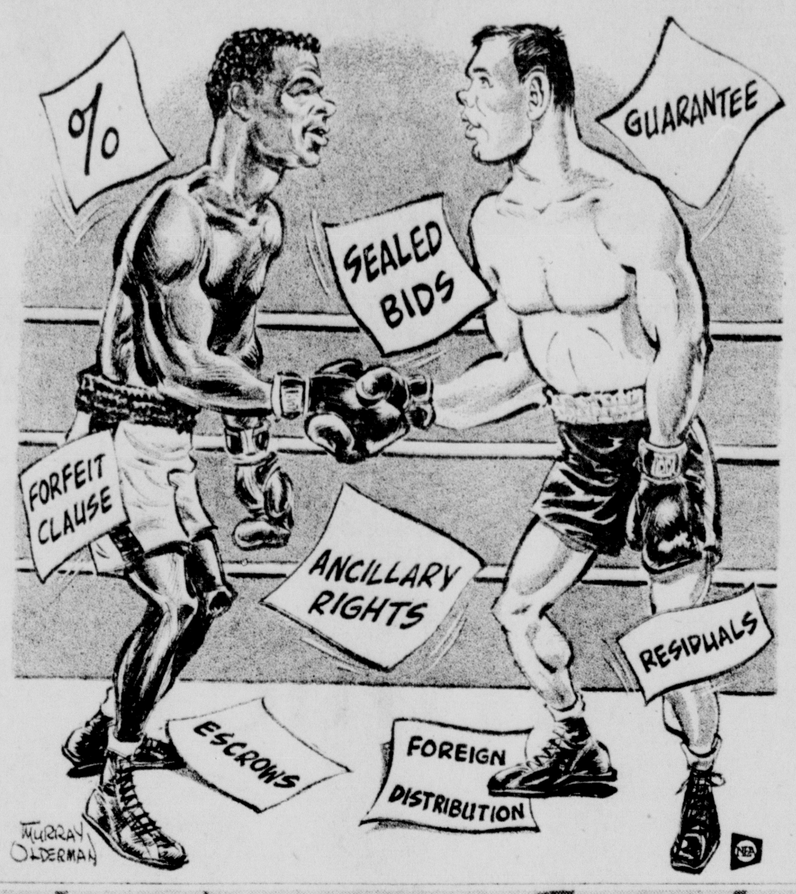

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Michigan blanked Iowa 6-0 Friday in a Big Ten baseball game played in dark, showery weather. The winning pitcher was Bob Morcereau.

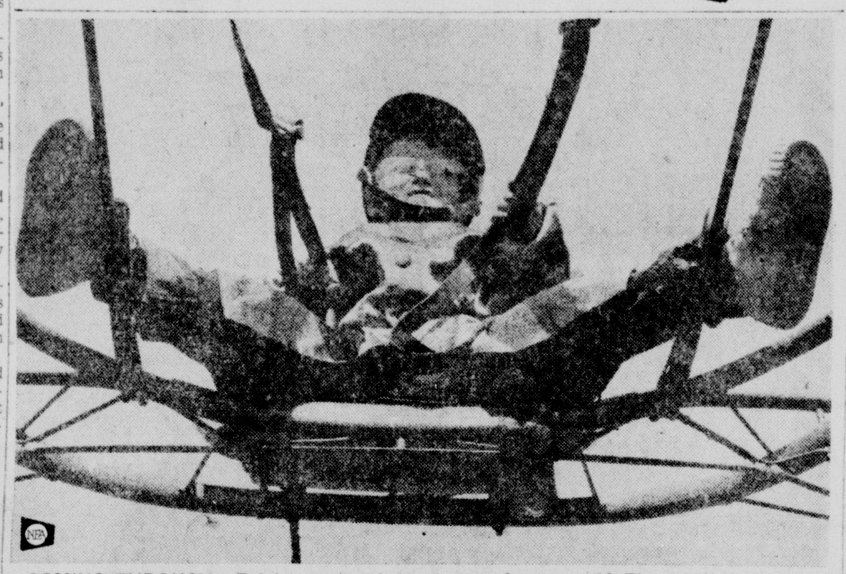

The closest Iowa got was in the third when Don Peden tripled, only to be left on.

The close-to-the ground machines are equipped with differential permitting drag-free wheel motion on tight turns. This form of racing like all others is booming across land.

'ISN'T THIS MUCH MORE EXCITING?'

Continental Must Meet 10 Requirements

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Friday hailed New York's proposed new stadium as progress for the Continental League but pointed out that 10 basic requirements must be met by the league to gain major league status.

"We outlined 10 requirements at our meeting in Columbus last May," said Frick. "The majors declared they would favorably consider an application by a group which could qualify. To me that was a pretty definite commitment.

"The rest is up to the Continental League. It is up to them to meet the requirements. When they think they are ready I will be glad to meet with them. In fact, I am here, ready to meet with them at any time."

One of the 10 requirements is that the league shall file for major league status at least six months before the meeting at which its application must be considered and at least 10 months before the opening of its season.

As the Continental League already has set April, 1961 as its opening date, that would mean that it must file application by June, 1960. If it desires to be accepted into organized baseball in time for the annual draft meetings in late November or early December it would have to file by late May or early June to come within the six-month limit.

The new league also must acquire the minor league territory in which it plans to operate; file complete data on all stockholders; have ball parks with a minimum capacity of 25,000; adopt the major league minimum salary and uniform player contract and join the present player pension plan or adopt a comparable plan.

Virginia had a double winner in Carls, who annexed the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Routt also gained a couple of firsts with Bob Johnson winning the 440 while Ed Langdon and Jack Lawless shared a first in the pole vault.

TV NEWS
by DON SHUMAKER

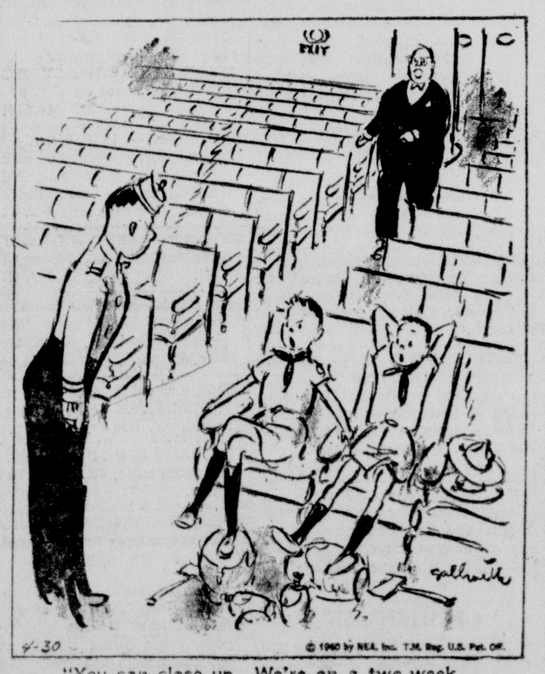

Academy Award winner Simone Signoret, who appears in her first American teleplay on CBS - TV's "G - E Theatre" Sunday, May 8, attributes her current popularity in this country to the "language breakthrough." "For so many years I have acted in French pictures," says Miss Signoret, "My pictures were in your art theaters But then I make 'Room at the Top' (the picture she won the Oscar for) and speak English. Viola! Everything changes."

Since coming here some 3 months ago, Miss Signoret has been swamped with TV offers. "Don't You Remember?", the title of her "G-E Theatre" debut play, was one of many submitted to her. "But it was the only one that appealed to me," she says, "so it was the only one I did." In the show, Miss Signoret portrays a bitter woman who plans to avenge the negligent slaying of her husband and child, a far different role from the one she had in "Room at the Top." Says Miss Signoret, "The public won't love the woman I play in 'Don't You Remember?'"

Maybe not, but we at Shumaker TV & Appliance are sure you'll appreciate the dependable TV repair our service department provides. We're sure, too, that you'll appreciate the fact that our work is fast, keeping your repair bills at a minimum, and letting you get back to TV viewing enjoyment quickly. Call us next time. A Look At Four Top Talks Of The Past

TEHERAN, IRAN (NOV. 28-DEC. 1, 1943) — Premier Stalin, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill met to guide their joint effort in defeating Germany and to "banish the scourge and terror of war for many generations." The three governments also agreed to work for the welfare of Iran.

YALTA, CRIMEA (FEB. 4, 1945)—This first meeting between the Big Three since Teheran was to be their last. The conference was designed to get Russia into war against Japan and to set up the three-power occupation of Germany. The Polish boundary was also defined and a U.N. charter outlined.

POTSDAM, GERMANY (JULY 17-AUG. 2, 1945)—President Truman, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Clement Atlee—who replaced Churchill—met near Berlin to discuss, for the most part, defeated Germany. A council of foreign ministers was scheduled to deal with the final peace settlements.

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND (JULY 18-23, 1955)—Premier Bulganin, President Eisenhower, Premier Edgar Faure of France and Prime Minister Anthony Eden of Britain met and agreed to set about the process of reunifying Germany. The conference closed with utterances of "friendship," "understanding."

KEEP PACE WITH ELECTRICITY
LIVE MODERN

This best describes your City Power Department for 1959 — During the year, the new $250,000.00 improvement program for the distribution system was completed. In 1959 your City Power Department completed installation of modern new street lighting systems on East State Street and East Morton Avenue. As in the past, your City Power Department maintained and improved the street lighting throughout the city. Also the traffic signal lights plus providing the labor for placing the Christmas lighting in the downtown business area.

The financial side of the picture is the best in the history of your City Power Department. More citizens of Jacksonville than ever before enjoyed the efficient and economical electric service. The statement of condition reflects this.

BLAZE OF SUNLIGHT

BY FAITH BALDWIN

XXIV

Rose surprised herself by laughing; after a moment he laughed with her.

She poured a cup of coffee for Tim and he said, "Black, I think." She handed it to him and then sat down opposite him at the kitchen table.

Maybe this wasn't the way. Perhaps she should have waited in tears, with a tract, seething with threats and warnings, offering the pledge—with a bull whip—instead of coffee.

"Good girl," said Tim suddenly and she nearly leaped from her chair. That was what Mark said, not often, but when he was particularly proud of her. Good girl. It was like the Navy's "Well done." Tim must have heard it a time or two and remembered, perhaps not consciously; maybe it had come from his subconscious. Or, perhaps, he meant it.

He put his elbows on the table. "Was I ever scared stiff when I came downstairs. I nearly didn't, but I couldn't stay in bed all day with the covers over my head. There wasn't anything else to do but get up, or jump out the window and I didn't feel up to that."

"I was scared, too."

Tim said, "Mom, it never happened before honest. I've had a beer now and then, but when we started home and got to talking and there was this bottle—"

She said quietly, "You don't have to tell me, Tim. It's just that you're a little inexperienced to cope with bourbon."

"Oh, sure, and no decent bar would serve me, but Milt's nearly 22 and he could go into a store."

Bluff came downstairs and crept under the table. And Tim said, ". . . Oh, well I had a lousy summer."

"Let me guess. You had a fight with Kate."

"Debbie told you? . . . I'll murder her."

She wouldn't give Debbie away nor last night's Tweedledum and Tweedledee. She said, "I deduced. I met Kate on the street the other day."

"She say anything?"

"Only that she hoped you'd had a fun-summer and that the Cape was divine."

"Everything's divine," he said and absently reached for the tomato juice, poured himself a healthy slug, and downed it without a quiver. "Gets on my nerves. And the letters all about these Casanovas from Boston, New York and wherever. One had a speedboat, the rest had cars."

She said gently, "Kate's young and easily impressed, and you don't have to be that young to be impressed either. Shortly before I met your father I encountered the only really rich unattached man I ever knew. His people owned something fabulous like 50 oil wells or a hundred thousand acres of something. I did my darndest to fall in love with him."

This struck Tim as hilarious. He said, "Well, why didn't you?"

"Oh," she said, " I suppose because he wasn't a man I hadn't met yet, named Holmes."

"Anyone ever call Pop Sherlock?" asked Tim idly.

"Everyone, when I first knew him; they got away from it."

After a moment Tim said, "Well, heck, Mom, I've been thinking of Kate as my girl for a long time."

A year possibly, she remembered.

She said, "People change. Maybe she has; maybe she hasn't; maybe you will. Give it time."

He said, "I suppose I have to take it."

Rose said, "Look. I won't ask you to promise me anything, Tim. You'll be 20 soon and in the books you're grown up . . ."

That's a nice, easy, everyday lie. He isn't; I'm not; no one is, really; just in the body, and sometimes, the mentality, and usually the outward seeming.

"Well, thanks," he said, "I feel about 11."

You looked it, she thought, last night. Aloud she said, "But you were such a dope. Suppose this had come to the attention of the college authorities—what then?"

"It isn't worth it."

She wanted to cry, she wanted to laugh. She said, "Good."

He got up and pushed his chair back. He said, "Thanks. You've been swell." He hesitated then asked, "You think I should call Kate?"

He hadn't asked her advice for a long time; not even what socks, shirt or tie to wear; he'd asked his father that in the past few years.

Rose was silent, as if considering. Then she said, "No harm trying; she can't do more than brush you off, and it won't be the first time. So, if you can take it . . ."

He went off whistling and Bluff, looking restored, followed.

Rose shook the pot, there was another cup. She poured it and sat quietly. Tim was phoning from the other room. She heard his voice, careless and confident. He said, "Hi. Greetings. . . . Yeah, last night. . . . Oh, it was sort of late and I slept this morning. Mom and I just had breakfast." He was silent a moment and then he said, "Well, maybe I could drop around in the afternoon; I'm going to cut the grass now."

Rose thought: I could faint more easily than lift this bone-china cup.

As for the grass it was yellow-brown. But that wasn't the point.

Did I fail? Should I have cracked down when he was nearly defenseless? Are we better friends?

She didn't know. She sat in the kitchen and looked at the shelves Mark had made for her and asked him, "How'm I doing, darling?"
